PANIC IN PEIPING AS ULTIMATUM DELIVERED

Conference Fixing New Fleet Ratios

BRITAIN AGREES TO GERMAN DEMAND

NO OBJECTION EXPECTED

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, June 12.
The basis of the reported Anglo-German naval agreement is that the 35 per cent. of the British strength claimed by Germany, will apply to each ship category separately, it is stated here.

Germany's naval strength will remain constant in this ratio to Great Britain's so that the increase of the strength of any other naval power than Britain will not be followed by an increase in Germany's tonnage.

This proposal is said to have been accepted by Great Britain provided that no other power signatory to the Treaty of Versailles objects.

It is thought likely that Italy will agree. French agreement, on principle, is regarded as probable, though France may make reservations on a number of points.

WASHINGTON REPLIES
Washington, June 12.

Replying to the message from the British Government with regard to the progress of the Anglo-German naval conversations, the United States Government has expressed the sincere hope that the result of the parley will lead to a satisfactory solution. The United States hopes that the conversations will lead to a common viewpoint on the part of leading European naval powers with regard to a mutually acceptable proportional standard for their fleets.

Such an agreement, it is felt here, would contribute to a general agreement amongst principal naval powers of the world for limitations and reductions of armaments, in line with the London and Washington Treaties. —Reuter Special.

Confusion In Congress

LONG BLOCKS N.R.A.
EXTENSION

Washington, June 12.
Administration leaders strove without apparent success to have the Holding Company Bill taken up by the sharply divided House of Representatives Commerce Committee, where the Bill has rested for the past four months. Early report of the Bill to the House is predicted, but the Committee's attitude is as yet uncertain.

Meanwhile, Administration efforts to secure a quick passage of the N.R.A. Bill have collided with a filibuster by Senator Huey Long in an effort to force the adoption of a rider giving the Senate virtually complete control of Federal patronage. Senate leaders are planning a night session with a view to breaking the criticism of the filibuster, which is sprinkled with critical references to President Roosevelt. —Reuter.

Max Baer, who is to defend his world title against James Braddock to-night.

M. BAER PICKED TO WIN

BUT CHALLENGER

WORLD TITLE FIGHT

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, June 12.

Maxie "Rosebud" Baer, film star, cabaret entertainer and world heavyweight boxing champion, is a five-to-one favourite to retain his title when he fights against the former dock labourer, Jimmy Braddock, at Madison Square Gardens to-morrow night.

Baer, who declares he will quit the ring if he loses, expects a quick victory. Braddock, who a year ago was "on relief" and who has never beaten a first class fighter, is nevertheless confident of his ability to outpoint the champion. His confidence is shared by his handlers who have backed him for $5,000.

The majority of critics favour Baer, however.

Ticket sales are disappointing. Many believe the fight is no more than a "set-up" for Baer, some easy money for the champion. A 30,000-ticket house is expected. This number should pour $40,000 into the Garden's wickets.

The New York State Boxing Commission states that the referee will be announced just before the fight. —Reuter Special.

DOLLAR STILL UNCHANGED

MARKET CONDITIONS
VERY DULL

There was no change in the official rate of the Hong Kong dollar on opening this morning, the rate being 2s. 4d. Market rates are about 2s. 4 3/8d. and 2s. 4 1/2d. There is practically no business passing, the market being exceptionally dull.

In London, silver prices declined 3/8ths yesterday. China sold, while India and speculators bought, business being small.

In New York, silver is down 1/8th.

NEW LEGISLATION PROPOSED

Washington, June 12.
Mr. Kennedy, the Chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission, has disclosed that the Commission will recommend changes in securities legislation to the next Congress.

Mr. Kennedy declined to discuss the nature of the proposals, but he said experience had shown that changes were necessary. —Reuter.

LONDON FEARS FIGHTING IF DEMANDS NOT MET

TIENTSIN COMPLETELY IN HANDS OF JAPAN TROOPS

London, June 12.

Reports from Peiping state that the new Japanese demands have caused a semi-panic and have resulted in the exodus of crowds of civilians to the South. It is reported that the Japanese intend to give an aerial demonstration over the city to-morrow (June 13). Police have warned the population to remain calm. Midnight has passed without any overt action to enforce the ultimatum.

According to additional reports received here late this evening, the Sino-Japanese situation is now more serious than ever. The growth of tension follows upon additional Japanese demands upon China, which are a sequel of the vigorous Japanese protest to Nanking over the detention and imprisonment of four Japanese "special service men" at Changpei, Charhar, and the alleged anti-Japanese movement there.

Japanese military authorities are reported to be insisting on a Chinese reply to the latest demands by midnight to-night. The Chinese Government has reportedly warned General Ho Ying-ching Minister of War, now in Peiping, to refuse to comply with this new ultimatum.

JAPANESE CONTROL TIENTSIN

INCREASED TENSION
NOW UNLIKELY

EYES TURN TO CHARHAR

Tientsin, June 12.

There is a definite relaxation in the sensitive Sino-Japanese tension felt to-night as June 12, "the day of crisis" nears its end. It is believed that the local situation is well in hand. Old residents and those familiar with the Japanese policies believe that Japan will have little to gain by further action here at present in view of the fact that this area is now under their complete military and political control.

The Japanese militarists have gained every point in their demands of China, but they have left the door open to continue an offensive if they so desire.

The feeling blows hot and cold, but indications are that the Charhar situation will gain in importance. One of the outstanding features of the past week has been the complete dominance of the military faction, which has been pushing the Foreign Office, represented by the Consul-General in Tientsin and the Embassy in Peiping, into the shadowy background.

TROOPS WELCOMED

The arrival of Japanese troops in this city was made a gala event by the large Japanese community, since it clinched Japan's control of the area.

While the Japanese troops were arriving at the main railway station, with a fanfare of publicity at 10 o'clock, General Shang Chen's bodyguards slipped into Tientsin by a back door, Peinang Station, after General Shang, who is representing the Nanking Government, had received permission from the Japanese authorities to enter the Chinese city.

Japan's power is so much enhanced that many Japanese are already buying large properties immediately outside the foreign concessions, notably from the Russian and German concessions. Several large deals are reported to have been completed in the last twenty-four hours. —United Press.

STEEL CO. LOAN

New York, June 12.
The Bethlehem Steel Company has filed with the Securities Exchange Commission an application to float $55,000,000 worth of 4 1/2 per cent. sinking fund bonds. —Reuter.

If the Japanese insist upon obedience, fighting may commence in North China at any moment.

In the meantime, Chinese leaders are conferring without interruption seeking ways and means to meet this new threat. Some see no alternative but acceptance of the test demands from Japan, though they consider them profoundly unreasonable, while others are reportedly urging the Government to abandon Communist suppression wars and endeavour to seek a reconciliation with Russia. Their object is to institute joint Sino-Russian action to deal with the Japanese menace.

CLOSE WATCH

Developments in North China have aroused the greatest interest in London and the authorities are giving the situation their closest attention.

There is no immediate threat to British interests, at least none is envisaged at the moment, says Reuter's diplomatic correspondent, and whatever may be the ultimate outcome of the present Japanese action it appears there is no question at present of any treaty breach.

Indeed, as China's Government itself agreed to the demilitarisation demand by Japan, the question must at present be considered as a primarily domestic one between Japan and China.

Reports are circulating in London with regard to preparations to remove the British Embassy to Nanking but these appear to be completely unfounded. —Reuter.

BOUND BY TRUCE

New York, June 12.
The belief that certain secret protocols attached to the so-called Sino-Japanese Tangku Truce of May, 1933, was expressed to-day in a report to the Foreign Policy Association from Mr. T. A. Bisson, who quotes diplomatic quarters in Peiping as being of the opinion that these protocols embody the substance of Japan's famous "twenty-one demands."

This view, according to Mr. Bisson, would go far in explaining the importance attached to the Tangku Truce by the Japanese authorities, and the otherwise inexplicable references to this Truce which accompanied the recent demands would also supply the reason for Nanking's long list of concessions to Japan since 1933.

These concessions include revision of tariffs in Japan's favour; restoration of through railway traffic between Peiping and Mukden; resumption of postal communications with Manchukuo, etc.

In constantly referring to the Tangku Truce, the Japanese authorities, under this interpretation, are in effect demanding the fulfilment of additional pledges which Nanking has hitherto been unable to carry out. —Reuter.

CLOSED PORT ENTERED

Takao, June 13.

The s.s. Christina Moro, 800 tons, towing the 700-ton Salvador from Iloilo to Shanghai for repairs, entered the closed port of Kalkao, South-West Formosa, owing to water shortage yesterday.

After an examination, the master, who is reportedly a British subject, and of the crew, five of whom are British and forty Chinese, the port authorities announced that the reasons for the ship having put into Kalkao were unsatisfactory.

The steamers have been ordered transferred to Takao for further examination. The Salvador is without a crew. Both ships are of British registry, it is understood. —Reuter.

QUETTA'S HEALTH GUARDED

BUT SALVAGE STILL IMPOSSIBLE

London, June 12.

With the transfer of the wounded to hospitals in India, the health situation in Quetta is reaching normality. Stringent precautions against the outbreak of an epidemic are still essential and authorities are tackling energetically problems of sanitation both in Quetta itself and in surrounding districts.

Administration of villages around Quetta has improved rapidly from day to day. In the interests of public health Quetta remains closed under guard of military and police and no indication can be given at present as to when it will be possible to recommence salvage operations. Those whose property is buried in ruins are assured by the Government of India that vigilance of authorities for the protection of private property will not be relaxed. —Sir Norman Cator, Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan, has arrived at Simla to confer with the Government of India on the situation. —British Wireless.

WORLD PARLEY
SUGGESTED

Washington, June 12.

A joint resolution requesting President Roosevelt to begin negotiations with other nations to secure currency stabilisation on a bi-metallic basis, has been introduced by Representative White.

In a statement issued when he announced his action, he predicted:

"A monetary conference called by the United States would meet with instantaneous and favourable response abroad." Meanwhile, Senator Silverites are still not satisfied that the Treasury is buying silver as fast as it might. They intend to hold another conference soon to discuss what may be done in this matter. —Reuter.

MONTAGU REPORT

London, June 12.

Messrs. Samuel Montagu and Company in their report for the past week, after reviewing the daily movements of the market, conclude that the undertone of the market has been good. As it appears, there will be good resistance at any decline, but movements in the near future may continue to be erratic.

Messrs. Fildes & Abell in their silver report say that Chinese speculators have reduced their bull position considerably and that these sales have been the main source of supply.

Support has been chiefly speculative on Indian, local and American account. —Reuter.

FIRING WILL CEASE
ON JUNE 14

(Special to "Telegraph")

Buenos Aires, June 12.
An armistice was signed at noon to-day between Paraguay and Bolivia.

It provides that firing shall cease within forty-eight hours in the Gran Chaco country where for nearly three years these two nations have been at death grips. This interval is fixed to give each side time to warn all posts on the 375 mile front that firing must cease at a given hour: noon of June 14. —Reuter Special.

SEARCH FOR OIL

POSSIBLE BRITISH RESOURCES

MANY WANT LICENCES

Many applications for licences to search for petroleum in Britain are expected to be made under the regulations which have been framed under the Petroleum Production Act, 1934. The regulations have been laid on the tables of both Houses of Parliament, and will become effective, if not disapproved, within 28 days.

It is known that interests well equipped with technical knowledge and financial resources are ready to engage actively in the search for oil as soon as prospecting licences can be obtained. Applications may be made as from June 1 next.

Provision is made by the regulations for two kinds of licence—(1) prospecting and (2) mining. The prospecting licence has a period of three years, which may be extended year by year to a maximum period of five years. The mining licence is for a term of 50 years, which may be extended to a maximum of 75 years.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

Licences will be for reasonably large areas. This will enable licencees to carry out prospecting and drilling operations with a view to discovering complete oil structures within the areas granted them, and to develop under a scheme of unit development any petroleum which may exist. The regulations and model clauses have been specially designed to ensure that the work shall be carried out by concerns which are properly equipped both financially and technically, and capable of undertaking the task of prospecting for oil in accordance with the best modern oilfield practice.

Clauses have been inserted dealing with questions such as the avoidance of harmful methods of working, the protection of mines and coal seams, the disposal of waste oil, salt water and refuse, the health and safety of workers, the minimum distance of bore-holes from the boundaries of the licensed area, and the deposit by the licensee of security.

The petroleum regulations permit applications for licences from foreigners and from companies incorporated outside Great Britain, but provide that an operating company must be formed and registered in Britain.

The licensee will have a monopoly in the area for which he holds a licence, and each licence will contain a provision for the payment of sums agreed between the Board of Trade, with the consent of the Treasury, and the licensee, as minimum annual payments and royalties.

ROYALTY RATES

It is provided that the rate of royalty on crude oil shall never be less than 38. per cent, nor more than 6s. per ton. Royalty on casing-head petroleum spirit recovered shall not be less than 1d. per gallon and shall not exceed 2d. per gallon.

All operations within the licensed areas are to be carried out in such a manner as not to interfere unnecessarily with the amenities of the locality.

The Board of Trade may require that crude oil or products shall be sold for consumption in Great Britain or Northern Ireland, so long as they can be consumed in the home market. The holder of a prospecting licence must carry out a scheme of prospecting or development to be agreed with the Board of Trade and set out in a schedule to the licence.

The application fees, payable will be £20 for a prospecting

WIDE BELTS

On A Blue And White
Crepe Dress

FOR EVENING WEAR

"Wide Belts". The wide belt on this model is kinder to the figure than the straight folded one. The gown is useful, in that it is suitable for informal evening wear as well as for afternoons, being developed in printed blue and white crepe finished with plain white organdie.

FASHION NOTES

ONE of the smartest summer colours is "Carbon blue," that is a deep purplish blue, almost black. There is a great deal of red, wine red, strawberry red, and tomato red. Every shade of purple is starred, from clematis purples, violets, and carbon-purple blues, to lilacs and mauves. There are Malmesbury pinks, pinks like strawberry cream, cyclamen pinks, vivid shot greens, bronze, amber, dreamy greys, primrose-yellows, and pale lime green.

Black is, as usual, the favourite tone for formal afternoon attire, as well as for informal evening wear.

There are decidedly conflicting elements in the silhouette style-escape this season. As usual, these are more apparent in the evening picture.

There are two distinct day silhouettes. One has a gored skirt, not very full, but circular, short, straight sleeves and belted bodice slightly bloused. The other is cut on the straight with shirred or gathered fullness at the front of the neck and below the waist. Sometimes we find short puffed sleeves, a tiny waistline and bell-shaped broad skirt, with the hips smoothly outlined.

However, despite the wide variety of silhouettes, there is one characteristic that is peculiar to every one of the new lines, they are all ultra-feminine. Even tailored suits for daytime are given blouses with frilly ruffles and jabots, and the blouses themselves are in sheer silks and cottons that are transparent.

Licence and £40 for a mining licence. The security deposit will have relation to the size of the area—£6 per square mile in the case of a prospecting licence, and £20 per square mile in the case of a mining licence, subject to a minimum of £400 for a prospecting licence and £1,000 for a mining licence.

Special provisions apply in the event of the licence becoming controlled, directly or indirectly, by an alien or company incorporated outside Great Britain.

Stormy Scene In Council

SOCIALISTS CLASH WITH I.L.P.

ABRUPT ENDING

A heated "scene" at Glasgow Town Council, during which personalities were indulged in, ended abruptly by Lord Provost Sir Alexander Swan vacating his chair.

The Corporation had been in session for under two hours when the uproar began unexpectedly, and in consequence of the adjournment an accumulation of important business was not dealt with.

The scene developed at question time while Mr. Joe Payne (I.L.P.) was inquiring about the jerky and noisy condition of certain tram-cars.

His retorts to certain interruptions were objected to by some Labour members, and amid the cross-talk Mr. John S. Ratcliffe (Soc.), who was standing in one of the passages, told Mr. Payne—"Get on with your question, you dirty little rat."

DEMAND FOR WITHDRAWAL

The Lord Provost immediately called for a withdrawal of the remark, which Mr. Payne indicated that he intended to ignore with contempt.

Depute River Bailie Mrs. Mann (Soc.), who had previously had a heated exchange with Mr. Payne, declared that if Mr. Ratcliffe withdrew the remark she would substitute "dirty pig."

Mr. Ratcliffe, after returning to his place in the chamber, said he was prepared to withdraw, but added that a man who stood up in the Corporation and insulted a woman deserved a stronger term.

Amid considerable din the Lord Provost called on Mrs. Mann to withdraw her remark, to which she replied—"I will substitute he is a loathsome pig."

LOD PROVOST'S REBUKE

"I cannot understand this exhibition; I will not allow these personalities," declared the Lord Provost sternly. "You are supposed to be here in the interests of the public and supposed to be sincere in your actions. I call upon you, Mrs. Mann, to withdraw that remark."

Mrs. Mann—I prefer to leave the Corporation.

Mr. Joe Taylor (I.L.P.)—Oh yes, she will resign and then change her mind as she did the last time.

In the pandemonium that followed Treasurer P. J. Dollan endeavoured to restore peace. He appealed to his Socialist colleagues to conduct themselves in a proper manner and expressed the hope that the request made by the Lord Provost would be responded to.

Mr. Victor Warren (Mod.) hoped that Treasurer Dollan would show them a good example, and Mr. Warren was promptly reminded by the Lord Provost of the proverb of seeing the mote in one's neighbour's eye and forgetting the beam in one's own eye.

CONTINUED UPROAR

Mr. Payne, speaking amid continued uproar, said—"If Mrs. Mann is not to withdraw then she should adopt the alternative suggested by herself. If she does not, then I am to suggest to the leaders of my party that the business should not be allowed to proceed."

Mrs. Mann then rose and, indicating the I.L.P. members, referred to "that crowd over there." The remainder of her remarks were lost in the noise and interruptions from I.L.P. members, several of whom were on their feet at the same time.

At this point the Lord Provost abruptly ended the meeting by asking the Council officer to remove the Mace. His action came as a surprise, and a number of members were still wrangling while he was leaving the chamber.

ANNE SHIRLEY'S RISE TO FAME

SUCCESS CAN'T TURN HER HEAD

SHE EVEN LIVES WITHIN HER INCOME

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood. Anne Shirley is headed for the topmost brackets of moviedom. You can hear that prediction on almost any corner in Hollywood these days.

And I'm convinced it will be borne out. Certainly she's one of the six best bets among our younger screen actresses. No girl with her enthusiasm and sanity, coupled with obvious acting ability, could miss going clear to the top. Sanity! You don't often hear that word in connection with Hollywood actresses. Neither do you expect to find it in a 17-year-old girl with a healthy mop of reddish blond hair and no freckles.

Anne has it, though. Proof is the manner in which she lives. Her scale of living hasn't begun to keep pace with her advancement on the screen. That in itself is a rarity in Hollywood. The usual thing is to live way beyond your income.

However, this young actress has learned from experience that such living doesn't pay. Having supported her mother and herself since she first entered pictures, she has long known the value of a dollar.

Neither has she forgotten the days when her budget was limited to $10 a week.

Perhaps mother finds it advisable to inject a wise word now and then. But on the whole Anne has proved herself a pretty sensible girl.

Even when she signed her contract with R.K.O. last fall she was perfectly content to go on living in their tiny three-room apartment above a hardware store.

Not until she was cast for the title role in "Anne of Green Gables" and future success became certain, did they move into their present apartment building.

Then they took a very small apartment, moving into a larger one at the front of the building only a few weeks ago, when Anne's first option was taken up.

GIFT THRILLS HER

The budding star walked the five blocks to and from the studio every day, too—except on rainy days.

Then she took a taxi. She wanted a car, but didn't feel she could afford it yet.

However, when her option was taken up, she selected the auto she wanted, a small black coupe, and paid a deposit of $50 on it.

"If I'm lucky, I'll be able to get it in a couple of months," she thought.

Then out of a clear sky a shiny black coupe arrived—a present from studio executives on her 17th birthday.

I dropped by her apartment that afternoon. Anne was standing in the window admiring the small car in the street below.

Really you should have seen her. Her first car! And she wanted to tell the whole world it was hers.

A table was loaded with other presents. Even the trick yellow overalls she was wearing were a present from her mother. But the big brown eyes could see only the car.

ZEAL IS AMAZING

"I feel crazy to-day," she exclaimed, plopping down on the davenport and drawing her knees up under her chin—a freedom the overalls permitted. "I'm always a little bit crazy. But to-day I'm utterly mad. So don't mind anything I do or say."

While it was the new auto which captivated her for the moment, Anne usually has that same girlish enthusiasm for everything. I've seen enthusiasm before, but never in such quantities as it fairly bubbles out of her.

The zeal with which she attacks work and play alike is overwhelming.

The young actress is tremendously popular with Hollywood's younger crowd. And she likes the crowd. She enjoys her school girl romances, too. Despite the fact that she's a potential star and studies under a private tutor at the studio, she's still a school girl—until June, when she gets her high school diploma.

"DATED" JACKIE COOGAN

Jackie Coogan is one of her old suitors. She's seen with Tom Brown frequently now. And a short time ago she went with the same boy for three months. That was a record.

"I used to go dancing or to shows with boys just because I liked the idea of going out," she says. "But I don't do that any more. Unless I really like a boy, I can't be bothered."

She still likes to go out, though, particularly if the evening's schedule calls for dancing. That's her favorite pastime. But she neither smokes nor drinks. She's tried both and doesn't care for either. So she leaves these pleasures for others.

INTERESTED IN PICTURES

Anne's chief interest these days centres around pictures. Even when she isn't working she spends a great deal of time prowling around the studio to watch other players. There isn't a picture made on the R.K.O. lot that escapes her.

And when she isn't watching them being made, she's in a theatre looking at the finished product.

"I must be an awful judge of films, though," she confesses. "I never get a kick out of big pictures that everyone else thinks are so good. But I fairly wallow in pictures most persons claim are terrible."

When she isn't all wrapped up in pictures or the making of them, young Miss Shirley spends most of the sunlight hours at the beach. She loves to swim and fortunately doesn't sunburn easily.

Now that she has her own car for transportation, she expects to spend most of her spare time this summer in a bathing suit.

Until recently Anne was known as Dawn O'Day, her real name, and her hair was almost black. Photographic reasons prompted her to change it to its current reddish colour.

And she changed her name to Anne Shirley when she became the title character in "Anne of Green Gables."

Leslie Charteris, of England, successor to Edgar Wallace, late writer of best-seller detective stories, is shown in his New York hotel suite. He is the creator of "Allies the Saint," a character that appears in his 20 books.

PACIFISM UNKNOWN

MEANINGLESS WORD IN MANY PARTS

Vienna, June 2.

In the vocabulary of University students in Austria and the Danubian states generally "pacifism" is an almost non-existent word.

Belief in peaceful methods of settling disputes is present in no student body.

"Turn the other cheek" is about as popular in Central and South-east Europe as a bull in a ten shop.

Even in student-body affairs an appeal to the fist is considered as a much more persuasive method of arguing than speeches from the debating-hall platform or the round-table conference; and to the extent that the various rival bodies of all political colours can evade the police this method is practiced.

Socialist students profess to be opposed to international wars on the grounds that such wars are the tools of capitalism; but for a civil war to overthrow so-called bourgeois capitalism in their own respective countries they are ardent advocates.

It is zeal they demonstrated in Austria not only several times immediately after the great war but also in July, 1927, and February, 1934, on both of which occasions Socialist revolts in which they participated were suppressed only at a cost of scores of dead and hundreds wounded.

Student Christian movements such as those in the U.S.A. and Great Britain and some parts of South America, which have tended for a decade to develop into centres for pacifist propaganda, are practically unknown in this part of the world.

PRAGUE WARFARE

Among all races and religions represented in the university student life a definite anti-Pacifist militancy is dominant. At the moment the racial nationalists form probably the majority in every student body. What such a form of nationalism signifies was demonstrated recently in Prague, when at intervals for several days the police had to be on the alert to prevent the Czechs and Germans from killing each other and demolishing furniture during a fight over the possession of the historical insignia of Charles University, which both claimed.

Also it was demonstrated by the Nazis in Austria in months of activity in the manufacture and small bombs, some even in the buildings of their own schools. And, likewise in the intermittent anti-Semitic riots in Austria, Hungary and Rumania and the Serb versus Croat riots in Yugoslavia.

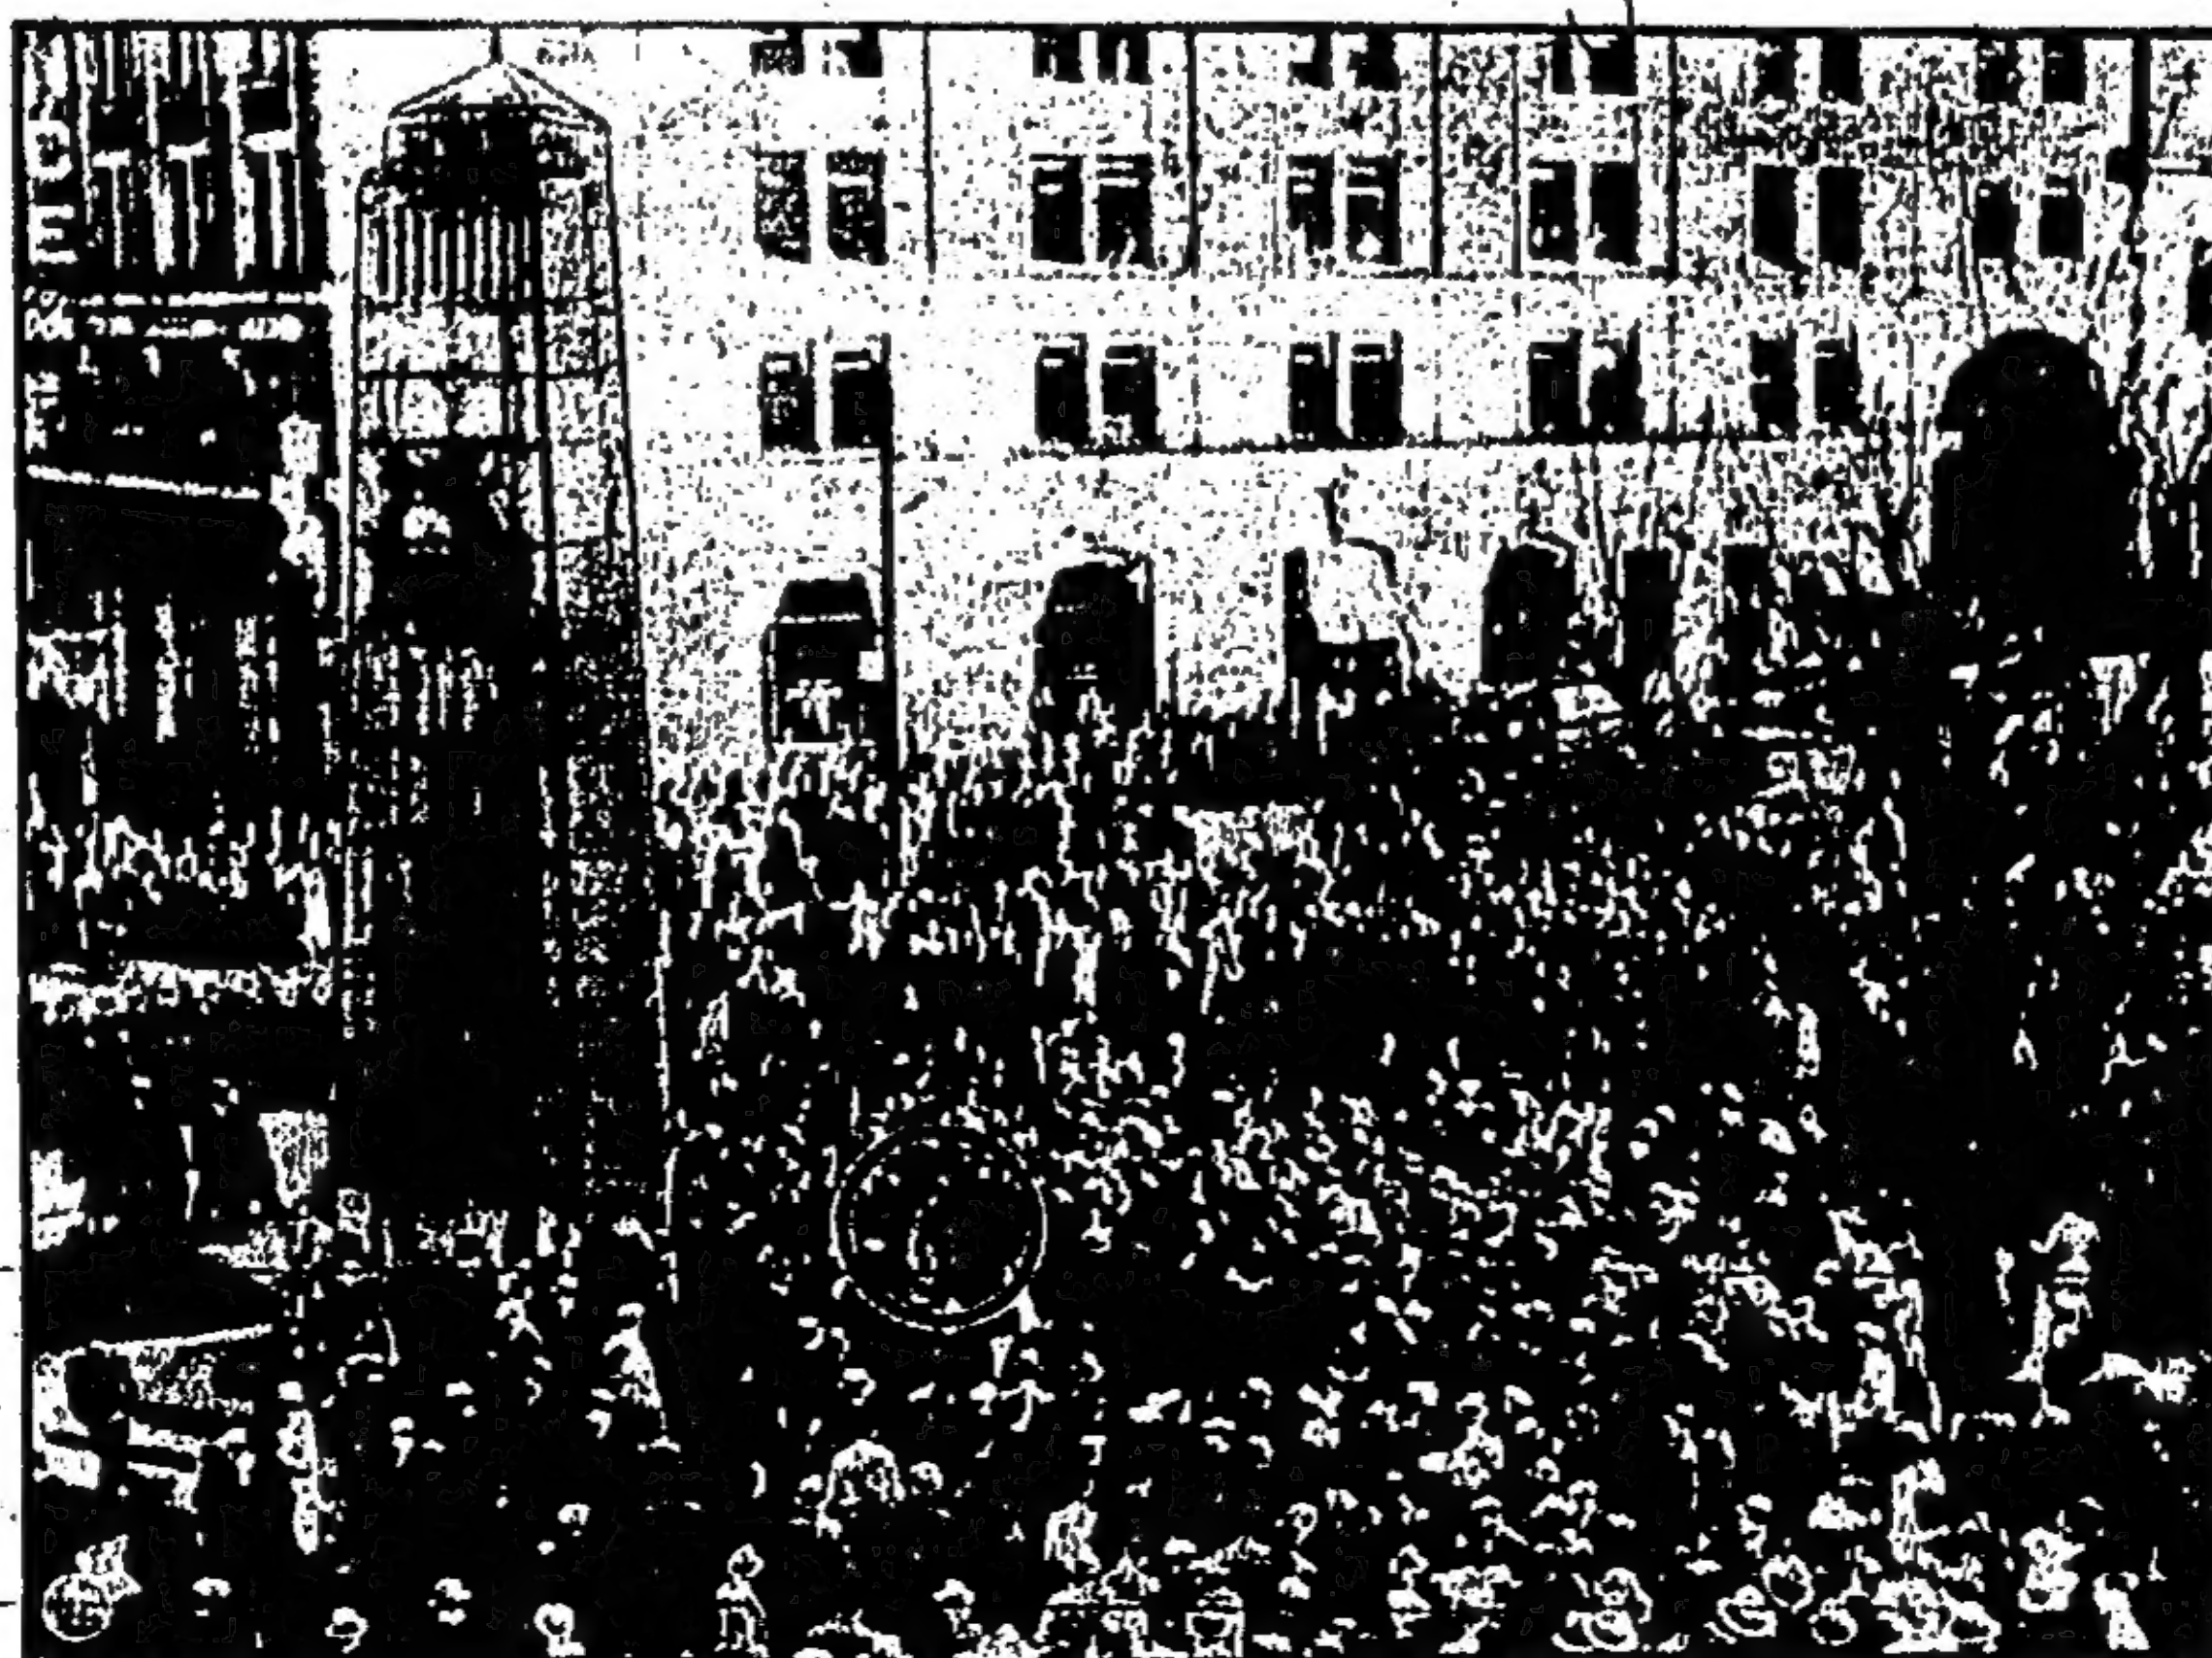

Even the Jews in Danubia are ready for a scrap. In Vienna university, for instance, there are several so-called student corporations composed exclusively of Jews which cultivate the tradition of the German students of face slashing in sabre duels whose justification is said to be the stamina such duels instill in the participants. That these same Jews are not pacifists in their outlook toward either internal or international politics goes, of course, without saying.—United Press.

Virginia Briscoe is only 17 and seemingly too young to be impressed by royalty. While in Budapest the daughter of Powell Briscoe, wealthy American oil operator, had the opportunity (most girls deem it an honour) of dancing with the Prince of Wales. Virginia, however, claims that he was "not so hot as a dancer," and that she'd "lots rather dance with the boys back home."

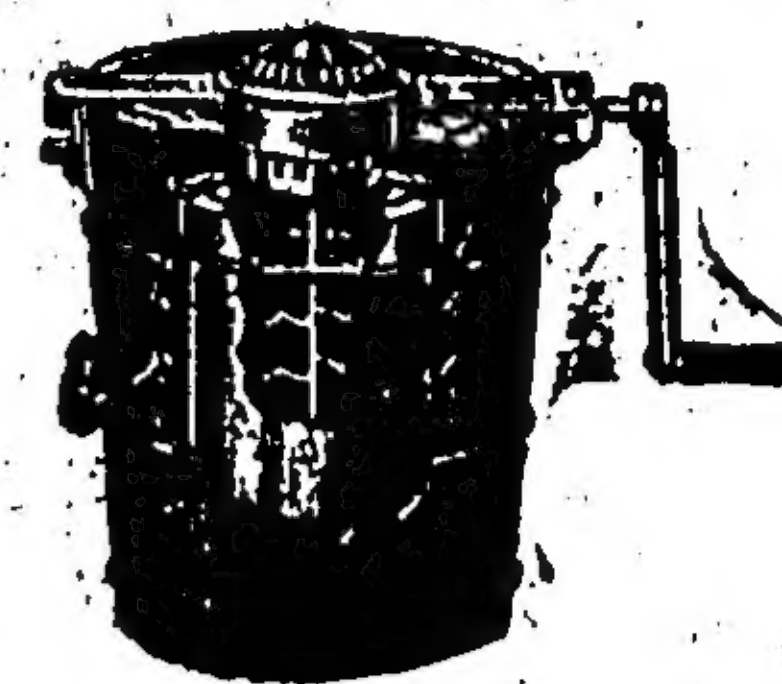

The Rev. Desmond Morse-Boycott, London clergyman, shown with the tattered document which is now being studied by experts in the hope that it is what the clergyman believes it is, a reproduction of a letter written by Jesus. Although no trace of the writings of Jesus has ever been discovered, theological experts affirm He must have written much. The document gives the text of two letters, one said to be written by Agbarus, prince of Edessa, in Arabia; the other stated to be the reply of Jesus. The Rev. Morse-Boycott said the document in his possession was printed in Britain centuries ago.

After a day of rioting in the relief camp strikes at Vancouver, B.C., Mayor McGree (in circle) read the King's Riot Act to quell the disturbances. The gathering later dispersed.

"The Lemon Drop Kid"
Lee Tracy, Paramount star, once had an opportunity to become Damon Runyon's Hollywood literary agent, but passed it up because he didn't think there would be much money in it. Hard at work on Runyon's newest Paramount picture, "The Lemon Drop Kid," which is showing to-day at the Alhambra Theatre, Tracy revealed how he missed the chance of making a small fortune. "Before I left New York to come to Hollywood," explains Tracy, "I happened to run into Damon Runyon, who is an old friend. Runyon, it developed, had just finished a number of short stories and had planned to seek publication for them in the national magazines, but, hearing that Tracy was coming to the movie capital, Runyon suggested: 'Since you're going out there anyway, maybe you could get rid of one or two of them for pictures.' 'Okay,' said Tracy. 'How much?' I ask for them? 'Well,' he mused, 'maybe you can get $1,500, but take anything and we'll split it.' When Tracy left New York, however, the rush of departure made him forget his promise to Runyon and with it went his agent-aspirations and incidentally an opportunity to have made a veritable fortune. Since then, national fame and wealth in the studio for a high figure. His first success was 'Lady for a Day,' which was followed by the recent 'Little Miss Marker,' and 'Midnight Alibi.' Tracy's role in 'The Lemon Drop Kid,' the latest of the Runyon stories to be brought to the screen, is that of a 'tomb' gambler who turns honest for the sake of a small town girl. He finds the going too hard, however, and relapses into his former ways, and although his happiness is almost completely ruined, love for his child wins him back to self-respect and new happiness.

"The Whole Town's Talking"
Some men are born to be great, others achieve greatness but Edward G. Robinson, screen star, had greatness thrust upon him. Such at least, is the situation that exists in his starring production, "The Whole Town's Talking," coming very soon to the Queen's Theatre. Robinson is cast as an inoffensive shy little clerk who resembles an escaped desperado. To protect him from frequent arrests, he is given a "passport"—a document announcing that he is not the hunted criminal. However, this paper, when stolen by the villainous gangster, makes Robinson's life even more hazardous than before. John Ford directed "The Whole Town's Talking" from a W. R. Burnett novel, adapted to the screen by Jo Swerling and Robert Riskin. Columbia's ace comedians, The Players in the supporting cast of this exciting comedy-drama include Jean Arthur, Arthur Hohl, Arthur Byron, John Wray and Donald Meek.

You're hard-pressed to look nice in a wrinkled gown.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Darryl F. Zanuck took a page from P. T. Barnum's book when he surrounded with mystery the pair of mid-gets and the giant he brought to Hollywood for his 20th Century Pictures production of "The Mighty Barnum," which opens at the King's Theatre on Saturday. Even the stars of Hollywood did not see them before Zanuck said thumbs down on Hollywood parties and insisted that they travel about Hollywood in closed cars during the production of this Joseph M. Schenck production in which Wallace Beery portrays the great showman of a century ago. Their contracts also stipulated that they must not appear at night clubs, or other gathering places of Hollywood celebrities. After securing the couple, Zanuck found a General Tom Thumb and bride and a Cardiff Giant in the respective persons of George and Olive Briscoe, midget brother and sister, and Tex Madison, eight feet four, who for the past two years had been appearing at the Chicago World's Fair. This air of mystery even extended to Virginia Bruce for the screen test by which she won the role of lovely Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale whom Barnum brought to America, was made in secret and kept under lock and key. Others in the cast of the story from the pens of Gene Fowler and Bess Meredyth are Adolphe Menjou, Virginia Bruce, Rochelle Hudson, Janet Beecher, Lucille La Verne and Tammany Young.

"Have A Heart"

A tender romance that stirs the heart with its depth of human feeling is offered in "Have A Heart" first starring vehicle for Jean Parker, whose vivid talents have raised her to the highest Hollywood rating. The picture will be screened at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday. As "Sally," the doll-maker, Miss Parker plays a complete range of feeling from depths of pathos to sparkling comedy. James Dunn, in the male lead as Jimmy Flaherty, cousin of "Have A Heart" is warmly sympathetic and makes an ideal romantic partner. Notable for their contributions in the supporting cast are Una Merkel, as Jean, Miss Parker's friend, whose sense of humour saves many a difficult situation, and Stuart Erwin in the role of Gus, a would-be millionaire.

"You're Telling Me"

W. C. Fields' starring film, "You're Telling Me," the Paramount picture in which he is appearing with Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Joan Marsh and Adrienne Ames, is coming on Friday to the Alhambra Theatre. It's a comedy from start to finish, and was directed by Eric Keaton from the screen play by Walter DeLeon and Paul Jones. As Samuel Blabee, struggling inventor, all of whose contraptions are devices to get him away from work, Fields isn't much of a provider for his family, except to provide a lot of sorrows. Fields, however, is forced to turn over a new leaf when his daughter's happiness is at stake. And his antics in attempting to sell an invention, make a pile, and marry his daughter to the son of the town's wealthiest family, gives Fields opportunities for a score of high-pressure comedy scenes.

"Girl from Maxie's"

"The Girl from Maxie's" having its initial showings to-day at the Queen's Theatre is a brilliant and sparkling musical comedy of the gay nineties. Lucile Robinson and Frances Day are seen in the leading roles, the former as Dr. Potypou who is persuaded by his friend, Mongicourt played by Stanley Holloway to visit one of the gayest haunts of Paris, Maxie's. At Maxie's, Mongicourt and Potypou meet one of its famous habitués, a lovely girl nicknamed the "Shrimp" played by Miss Day. As the "Shrimp" she gives a superb performance and sings and dances divinely. Owing to a misunderstanding Potypou is forced to pretend that the Shrimp is his wife to his rich uncle, the General. The General, played by George Grossmith, invites the Shrimp and his nephew to his country house and when Dr. Potypou's real wife follows, played by Lady Tree, hilarious incidents and intrigues take place. George Grossmith as the General and Lady Tree as Madame Potypou add magnificently to the brilliant comedy of the picture. The film was directed by Alexander Korda who gave us such outstanding British pictures as "Henry, the Eighth," "Wedding Rehearsal" and "Service for Ladies." "The Girl from Maxie's" is a sheer joy from start to finish and one of the gayest and finest comedies ever brought to the screen. Never before have so many comedians been brought together in one picture.

"Heldorado"

A modern California gold rush is depicted on the screen for the first time in "Heldorado," Jesse L. Lasker's spectacular Fox Film production, currently showing at the King's Theatre. It is a far cry between a gold rush of 19 and one of 1935. In the old days the gold seekers tramped on foot, on horseback, and by carriage. To-day, when gold is reported discovered they hop in the family automobile, speed to the location and stake their claims. "Heldorado" is the thrilling tale of a band of modern travellers maneuvered in a California gold town, and it is in this picturesque setting that the 1934 gold rush takes place. In the romantic leads in the picture are Richard Arlen and Madge Evans, with a brilliant supporting cast which includes Ralph Bellamy, Henry B. Walthall, James Gleason, Helen Jerome, Stepin Fetchak, Gertrude Short, Patricia

NATIONAL DEFENCE

Lord Mottistone, who, as Colonel J. B. Seely, was formerly Secretary for War, recently raised a debate in the House of Lords on the question of the appointment of a Minister to co-ordinate the policy and supply of the three defence forces of the nation. He did not advocate the creation of a new Ministry of Defence, but he urged that there would be considerable waste, and possible danger, if Britain proceeded with her re-armament plans without having these directed by a man giving his whole time to the job, with all the best brains, both industrial and scientific, at his disposal. The House, however, declined to endorse his proposal, which, however, received considerable support from Socialist Peers. It is obviously in the national interest that overlapping and waste should, as far as possible, be eliminated where national defence is concerned, but the Government view is apparently that the advantages of co-ordination under the control of a "superman" are more apparent than real. For one thing, the machine is so vast, its duties and necessities so multifarious, that attempts at an extreme form of unification might produce results the opposite of those intended. Moreover, where is the "superman" to be found? The world at the present time is suffering from a distinct shortage of this particular type of individual. On the Continent of Europe there are one or two supermen in action—more commonly called Dictators—but the British system does not readily yield this type, and it is probably for the general good that this should be so. As one of the Home journals has remarked, the British nation does not take kindly to the superman, who too often is found to have feet of clay. One of the supreme lessons of the Great War was the inability of any one brain, military or political, to dominate the scene. True, there are or were plenty who were ready to claim that they had "won the war"; it would bring one nearer the truth to inquire which of the nations' leaders in the great struggle made the fewest and least grievous blunders. All of them had plenty of such to their account.

NOTES OF THE DAY

ANOTHER BITE

It seems to be generally accepted that Japan is about to take another bite off China's northern frontier. It seems that Britain and the United States and the rest will remove their embassies and legations from Peiping and their consulates from Tientsin. General Doherty pipes a lively tune, and the whole of the Far East, within ear-shot, is dancing. China is removing her troops from the northern cities, has reportedly accepted every demand made upon her by Japan. China is being careful not to give the Japanese Army in the North an excuse for another "incident." And in this one can scarcely blame her. Truly, a lover of freedom would probably insist that it were better to die fighting than to bend the knee to a conqueror; but that may be an outgrown bit of ideology. Faced with the prospect of a horrible and unequal contest which can only end in defeat and a heaping of miseries upon an already sadly burdened people, the Nanking Government is doing the most sensible, if least spectacular thing, in submitting for the moment to Japan's demand. But if, as her political leaders insist is true, Japan hopes to benefit some day soon from a warm friendship with the Chinese people, we suggest that her militarists are throwing obstacles in the way of her progress towards this end. She is sowing seeds in China which, when the time comes to reap the harvest, may have grown to such lusty strength as will dull the greedy sickle.

STUBBORN STAND

Japan's oft-repeated policy with respect to China, a policy allegedly intended to improve the lot of the Chinese people and incidentally benefit Japan, commences to smack of selfishness when considered in the light of Tokyo's refusal to collaborate with foreign experts in seeking a remedy for China's monetary ills. It was reported yesterday that the British invitation to Japan to join an international conference at Nanking, at which experts will endeavour to find a solution to these economic problems, had been declined. The only comment was that such an act of collaboration would be contrary to Japan's fixed policy in China. It would seem then that the Japanese ideal of hegemony in Asia and the welfare of China were somehow incompatible. We wonder whether the rather worn excuse of "China's welfare" is to be advanced when Japanese battalions are encountered in Peiping and Tientsin?

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT

BACKLASH

Time spent on the steering gear of the car is well spent, since it is such an important unit.

If the steering gear is in first class order there should be the minimum of backlash, that is, very little to and fro movement of the steering wheel before the action affects the deflection of the front wheels.

If too pronounced, backlash allows the front wheels to "flap" when an obstruction is encountered and the blow imposes an excessive strain on the parts concerned.

Backlash is due to an accumulation of wear in the numerous joints of the system and in the steering mechanism itself. When the movement of the steering wheel is more than half an inch in each direction it is advisable to have the system overhauled and adjusted by a competent mechanic.

The cost is not heavy, while it greatly increases the pleasure of driving.

The suggestion that all the defensive resources of the country should be combined under one directing genius is, therefore, one that needs to be approached with caution. There may be room for closer liaison among the three Services, but caution seems to suggest that top much in that direction should not be attempted.

MEN WHO MADE THE JUBILEE

By EDWARD SHORTT, K.C.

PROBABLY few of the countless spectators of London's greatest day of pageantry during the Jubilee celebrations paused to consider the men whose months of work and triumphs of organisation made possible Britain's supreme tribute to the King and Queen.

The splendour and precision of the state procession and the marshalling of huge crowds were not achieved without directing ability of a very high order. "What a marvellous and unforgettable sight!" every spectator must have murmured as he watched the dazzling cavalcade pass by him.

Who were the men who planned this grand spectacle, caused every detail to be rehearsed, and witnessed their triumph?

The prime architect of this pageantry was Lord Cromer, Lord Chamberlain, and the chief organiser of this memorable day. Lord Cromer knows more about state pageants than any other man, as his duties demand. He is responsible for practically every great ceremony of Court and State.

He has been Lord Chamberlain for 13 years. It is a very long time since the office was held by one person for a comparable period. Lord Cromer's wide and exact knowledge, his patience and discretion form an ideal equipment for the post.

As a young man he saw diplomatic service in Egypt, Persia, and Russia. That was probably a valuable training for his duties to-day, which often require a delicate diplomacy. Most people think of the Lord Chamberlain merely as the censor of stage plays. Important as is his oversight of the theatre, it is incidental to a crowded life.

Courts, levees, state occasions, all require his survey and decision. His office work alone is immense.

was but one feature of the colossal task which the police have performed. For days before, through wearying sunlit hours and for the hours after darkness when sight-seers transport gorged the London ways, they have marshalled and facilitated and piloted what has seemed to be a world on wheels.

So far as I know, and I have seen much of this gala time, the courtesy and helpfulness of the police, in conditions of unique stress, have survived splendidly.

The horses of the mounted men are invariably put through their paces before a great London ceremony. The several thousand "specials" who contributed to the perfection of the Jubilee arrangements all sacrificed their time to make themselves perfectly acquainted with their duties before the day.

The ardent sun of a perfect Jubilee day produced great demands on the kindly ministrations of the ambulance service. How quiet, prompt, and efficient were these workers!

The soldiers, too, were marvellous. How spruce and precise, how very, very British-looking, they were. How the foreigners admired them. The Navy and the Royal Air Force, likewise filling us with proper pride, were also present. Altogether 14,000 men of the Defence Forces, including the Guards and London's own Territorials, made a flashing border to the route. A grand parade, under the orders of Major-General B. N. Sergison-Brooke, G.O.C. the London District.

The Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's were responsible for the solemnities of the nation's tribute. The beauty of the service was apt to the beauty of our faith.

Let us remember our statesmen, too. The Cabinet had seen to it that Jubilee Day should be, in stateliness and splendour, what Britain wished. Sir John Gilmour, Home Secretary, has had many laborious hours. Mr. Ormsby-Gore, First Commissioner of Works, by commanding several hundred miles of timber and apparently several hundred more of tubular steel, caused to arise those grandstand cities from which Peers, M.P.s, and many other people saw the great pageant.

Think gratefully of Sir Edwin Lutyens and Sir William Rothenstein, who, with their artist's sense, told what was becoming adornment for many of our streets. And of the London County Council, and the Westminster City Council, and others, which have made their part of the Jubilee so fit and proper.

Remember the "geniuses" of the gas and electrical industries who wrought their night-time magic over Jubilee London.

And ponder, with a glow of pardonable warmth, the loyalty, the patriotic zest of the ordinary Briton, the man and woman like ourselves, the people, rich and not very rich, the comfortable and the poor who, at this Jubilee, have shown the world that there is one great, and true, and solid Britain.

When one sees the jubilant panorama of this land, with all the streets, high and lowly, aglow with the same flags, how can one not be stirred?

We know that our "policemen are wonderful." Well, they were, once again. Just British good-humour does it with that extra little knack in which our police excel.

The controlling of the immense throng on the day of the parades,

"We'll be back in about 20 minutes. I'm just going to write one poem."

The Very Idea!

IN LIGHTER VEIN

"My wife had a dream last night, and thought she was married to a millionaire."

"You're lucky. My wife thinks that in the daytime."

IN DEMAND

Manager—"From your references I see you've had four places in the last month."

Applicant—"Yes, sir, but that shows how much in demand I am."

PERTINENT

A native chieftain attended a Western dance.

He looked on for some time at the contortions of the perspiring young men and women of society as they danced. Then he turned to his hostess and said in a tone of mild astonishment, "Can't you get your servants to do this for you?"

THE LASS FOR ME

A Scotsman, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the lady of his choice.

After spending the entire day at the telegraph office, he was finally rewarded late in the evening by the answer "Yes."

"If I were you, I'd think twice before marrying a girl that kept me waiting all day for an answer," said the postmaster.

"Na, na," retorted the Scot. "The lass who waits for the cheap night rates is the lass for me."

AWKWARD

"Yes," said he, "I once had a very clever house-dog. He could always tell the difference between a gentleman and a tramp."

"And what happened to him?" asked a friend.

"Oh, I had to put him away. He bit me!"

REAL SCOTCH!

A Scottish scholar, asked for a sentence to illustrate the meaning of the word "deed," gave the following:—

"The thief was shot deed."

WARM WELCOME

A recent church notice reminds a reader of the following:—

SUBJECT: PALACES OF SIN VISITORS WILL BE MADE AT HOME.

ORIGINAL IDEAS

The lifeboat essay competition in elementary schools at Home this year has resulted in a number of gems of youthful expression.

One essayist more topical than accurate writes, "Lifeboats to seamen are like Belisha beacons to pedestrians."

Another, boldly plunging into metaphor, speaks of the unhappy mariners in a shipwreck, "each forming his earnest opinion that the next hour would be the last—that he would have shuffled off his mortal coil to be received into the jaws of the grim reaper."

One young philosopher points out that a baby saved from a watery grave "might make history, or when older be a general," while a budding economist remarks "it is much cheaper to keep a lifeboat service running than to pension off the dependants of the sailors and fishermen who have perished."

MORE HOWLERS

Hornets and baboons are two instruments used in an orchestra. Black clouds are formed by the evaporation of dirty water.

Geoffrey Chaucer was a famous poet, who wrote Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare.

The cuckoo does not lay its own eggs.

A barbarian is a man who does not shave.

Anthony offered Caesar a cornet.

SOMETHING WRONG

The scene was the interior of a saloon in the Far West, and round the table were gathered as tough a gang as could be found in the whole of California. The game was fast and furious, the stakes were high.

Suddenly the dealer flung his cards on the table, and threateningly pulled out his sixgun.

"Boys," he shouted, "the game ain't a straight one! Slippery Sam ain't playing the hand I dealt him."

A REAL FRIGHT

The motorist was a "speed merchant," and while trying out his new car at its utmost speed, removed ten or twelve feet of a six-foot stone wall.

As he was recovering consciousness in the local hospital, the doctor (an old friend) said to him, "Don't you know me? I'm Peter."

The patient gave a start.

"Don't you know me? Why did you jump?"

"Oh," said the jumpy one, "you gave me a fright. I thought you meant Saint Peter!"

DEVELOPING H.K. AS AIRPORT

MIGHT BE TERMINUS OF OCEAN AIRWAY

WARM APPROVAL GIVEN EXPANSION PLANS

Further support for a policy aiming at the full development of Hongkong as an airport is forthcoming in replies received to a questionnaire which the Telegraph has circulated to a number of prominent individuals and interests asking whether they favour action on the lines of the three following points:

- (1) Facilities being offered to Pan-American Airways with a view to making Hongkong its western terminus on the trans-Pacific Service;
- (2) Landing rights being granted to the China National Aviation Corporation for the purposes of linking up with the American Service;
- (3) The same facilities being extended to air-borne traffic, irrespective of nationality, as are now accorded to sea-borne traffic.

Below we give the views already expressed in reply to the points raised in the questionnaire.

MR. CASSIDY APPROVES

SOME QUERIES

I was agreeably surprised to learn from Mr. A. Eddy's article that there is every possibility of Hongkong becoming the terminus of the Pan-American Airways trans-Pacific service. I cannot imagine such a service paying its way for many years to come but the scheme shows remarkable enterprise which is deserving of success. We have the assurance of Sir William Peel that the question of putting Hongkong on the air map has been under consideration for some time past but it seems a pity that Imperial Airways have been so long in extending a service from Singapore to Hongkong even as a trial venture. I realise that there are political difficulties in the way but they cannot be insuperable.

Unofficial opinions from this end are hardly likely to carry much weight in Whitehall but my replies to all three of your questions are in the affirmative. I agree with the views expressed in your leading article and as one who is strongly in favour of keeping Hongkong a free port for shipping and trade I consider that all facilities should be accorded to aircraft without distinction of nationality.

P. S. CASSIDY.

MR. M. K. LO'S SUPPORT

I confess that I have not given much thought to the question of Hongkong as an airport because I feel that I have not sufficient data for any comprehensive study of the subject. But, as a resident who is keenly interested in the future prosperity of the Colony, I entirely endorse the viewpoint summarised by you towards the end of your able editorial of June 11. I do not think that my present views can be better expressed than in the following words of your leading article: "If, as is the case, we welcome ships flying the flags of any nation, there seems no logical reason why we should not adopt the same stand in regard to air-borne mails, passengers and freight. . . . Looked at from this angle, the moment would appear to call for reconsideration and possible revision of previous conceptions regarding Hongkong's aerial role. A short-sighted policy now might lose us a wonderful opportunity."

My answers to your three questions are therefore as follows: (1) Yes. (I assume that such facilities will not militate against the future extension of the Imperial Airways of Hongkong). (2) Yes. (3) Yes.

M. K. Lo.
(Chairman: Hongkong Rotary Club).

CONSULAR VIEW

The receipt is acknowledged of your letter of June 11, 1935, addressed to Consul General Charles L. Hoover, who is temporarily absent from the Colony, in regard to Hongkong's future as an airport.

Personally I can answer all three of your questions in the affirmative. Even officially I should naturally be inclined to answer in the affirmative the questions in regard to granting landing facilities and rights to aviation companies in which American capital is involved.

The article and editorial which you sent to this Consulate General have been read with much interest and your work in keeping this matter before your readers is sincerely appreciated.

L. H. GOURLEY,
U. S. Consul.

KING GOES FOR MOTOR DRIVE

CHEERED BY LARGE CROWDS

London, June 12. Soon after Lord Dawson left Sandringham in the afternoon, after his visit in connection with the King's indisposition, His Majesty went for an hour's drive in a closed car, being enthusiastically greeted along the roads.

The weather was fine while the King was enjoying the ride, but there was a heavy downpour of rain after his return to Sandringham.—Reuter.

London, June 12. The Queen returned to Buckingham Palace this afternoon from Sandringham, where the King, who is slightly indisposed, will remain for the present. His Majesty is suffering from bronchial catarrh, which is slow in disappearing because the King is fatigued by the efforts of the last few weeks.

A bulletin states that a period of not less than two weeks' rest will be required in order that His Majesty may recover his usual health.

ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED

He has accordingly been compelled to cancel certain of his engagements. These include a visit to the opera to-night, where the American prima donna, Grace Moore, is appearing in "La Bohème" and a Court ball to-morrow at which the Prince will lead the Queen into the white and gold ballroom at Buckingham Palace, in the presence of the King.

Much disappointment will be caused owing to the inability of the King to attend Ascot Race meeting next week, but other members of the Royal Family will be present and the usual procedure for Ascot Week will be carried out. The Queen will take up her residence at Windsor Castle on Saturday.

The King's indisposition is not serious.—British Wireless.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET IRREGULAR YESTERDAY

New York, June 12. The following reports on the New York Stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Stocks to-day were irregular as the result of the change of the Wheeler-Hayburn Utility Holding Company Bill by the Senate and also owing to the weakness of Chicago grains which opened lower. Industrial issues soared, but further selling erased most of the gains. Stocks on the Cash Exchange were irregular. The bond market was mixed. Railroad issues were strong, but utility bonds were lower. S. C. & F. New York office cables: The market was moderately lower on realizing. Average daily production of petroleum for the week ending June 8 was estimated at 2,643,000 barrels, compared with 2,576,000 barrels the previous week. The Edison Electric Institute estimates electricity production at 1,724,000,000 k.w.h., an increase of 4.2 per cent. from the corresponding period of last year.

New York and Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: (Cotton.) We expect a continuation of narrow limits. There was some hedging in "spot" cotton and the Government was a moderate buyer. Wheat: There was some heavy hedging in the new movement and the market lacked support. The Government weekly report is bearish. Private estimates of the crop are increasing.

Rubber: Early in the day, sellers re-hought their sales. Dealers and Commission houses continue to be buyers. The market is very firm.

Sugar: The market was dull and featureless, with perhaps a shade less energy.

RIFLE SHOOTING IN COLONY

RULES DRAFTED FOR NEW BODY

MEMBERSHIP QUALIFICATIONS

The Hongkong Rifle Association, formed a week ago, held its first Council meeting in the Board Room of the S. C. M. Post, Ltd., last evening to consider the drafting of its rules.

Lieut.-Col. H. L. Murrow, D.S.O. (retired), was in the chair, and those present were: Major D. H. Steers, Capt. D. J. Gray, R.M., Flight Lieut. J. L. D. Anderson, Messrs. C. A. Grimes, D. W. Waterton, R. Grievie, W. R. Scott, W. Stokes, L. B. Holmes and F. P. Sequiera.

According to the rules already drafted the objects of the Association are stated to be:—

(a) The encouragement of rifle and revolver shooting throughout the Colony, by providing instruction and practice on the open range, in the use of the rifle and revolver, for members of the Association.

(b) The selection of a team to represent the colony in all inter-Colonial and other events both at Hickey and elsewhere, in which teams representing the Colony may compete as such.

MEMBERSHIP

With regard to membership, the rules say that there should be three classes of individual full membership, namely:—

(a) Ordinary. Open to serving Officers and other Ranks of the Royal Navy, Royal Marines, Regular Army, and Royal Air Force and to past members of these Services; serving members of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps and past members of the Volunteer Corps; either here or in some other part of the Empire, who have attained military efficiency for at least three years; present and past member of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force; present members of the Hongkong Police Force; Police Reservists, ex-Reservists who are in possession of the Police Reserve Silver Badges; members of the Hongkong Royal Dockyard Police; and members of the Legion of Frontiersmen.

(b) Special. Open to those civilians, whose occupations in the Governments of the Colonies or in the Mercantile Marine Service are such that they would be retained in such employment in case of emergency.

Each application for membership will be considered by the Council, before approval will be given to such application.

(c) Honorary. Open only to such persons of distinction as may be invited by the Council to become Honorary Members.

The rules also say that there should be no entrance fees, and that the Annual Subscription to be $5 for Officers, $3 for other Ranks and $7.50 for Civilians. Their respective fees for Life Membership are to be $30, $18 and $45.

It was also mentioned at the meeting that the rules would be presented for adoption at the general meeting to be held in the Board Room of the S. C. M. Post, Ltd., on Wednesday next at 5.30 p.m.

TORRY WILSON RE-ELECTED

To Captain Shanghai Cricket Club

An appeal to all members to do their best to bring in new members was made at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Recreation Club by T. W. R. Wilson, acting president, who was in the chair. Mr. Wilson pointed out that the club had excellent facilities for cricket, soccer, tennis and lawn bowls. The chairman reported on a satisfactory past year.

An interesting announcement regarding the playing field was made by the chairman. This autumn it will be used for soccer (it was closed last season), but when the football season is over, the ground will be closed to play for a few months while it is raised one foot, in continuation of the scheme by which other parts of the race course grounds have already been made higher. While the ground is closed, the club members have been promised the use of the Widow's Monument ground for cricket and tennis next year.

The general committee were elected as follows: T. W. R. Wilson (president), J. L. Wade (vice-president), J. A. Brockett (hon. secretary), G. E. Marshall (hon. treasurer), G. H. Akerman (hon. auditor), H. J. Hunt, R. Davis, G. Madar, A. J. Willis, T. W. R. Wilson was re-elected captain of cricket.

Y.M.C.A. BURLESQUE POPULAR

"OLYMPIC GAMES" HELD

SPORTS MEETING LAST NIGHT

The European Y.M.C.A. first mock Olympic Games, 1935, held in the West Lounge last night attracted a crowd of over 200 people and proved very successful, giving every indication of being the forerunner of many more events of a similar nature when the cooler months come round.

An excellent burlesque programme was arranged by the Women's Section who are to be congratulated on their ingenuity. Everybody spent a thoroughly enjoyable time the events including fanning a paper fish on the floor (termed "swimming"), picking up walnuts with chop sticks and throwing peanuts into brass vases! The competing teams were Mars (Red), Venus (Pink), Jupiter (Green), Saturn (Violet), Neptune (Blue) and Mercury (Orange), and the respective captains were Messrs. D. Paul, F. Sellwood, R. Bates, G. Basil Jones, V. East and L. D. Skinner.

Saturn team won with 1,800 points. Mars being second with a total of 1,700 points, Venus being second with a total of 1,700 points and Neptune tied for third place with 1,400 points each.

At the conclusion of the events, Mrs. Sweet presented souvenirs to the winning team and to Mrs. Siegler and Mr. Harold Smith who won the prizes for the musical contest.

Mr. E. F. Selk expressed thanks to the Women's Section for the splendid programme they had arranged.

THE RESULTS

Results were as follows:

LOOK OUT FOR JAPANESE

BOXERS TIPPED FOR OLYMPICS

WARNING TO THE WORLD

Los Angeles.

From no less an authority than Lieutenant Jack Kennedy of the United States navy, a prominent ring referee, comes the caution to the world to look out for Japan in the 1936 Olympic games boxing championships.

"You remember how the swimming races went in the 1932 Olympic games?" questioned Lieut. Kennedy, referring to a Japanese sweep in most of the free style events. "Well, it's going to be that way in the boxing over in Berlin in 1936. The Japanese are out to do something in boxing and you watch them. They have 14,000 battling in eliminations right now. They'll be plenty tough."

Harry Griffiths, Everton centre-half, and Pinkerton, an inside forward from Hull City, were transferred to Port Vale last month.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. Daniel Winston Luke, land surveyor of the P.W.D., and Miss Jennie Teresa Hutchins, of 446 Nathan Road.

Relay Race:—1. Blue; 2. Orange; 3. Red.
Chariot Race:—1. Violet; 2. Pink; 3. Blue.

New Records Set Up In Japan

TRACK TIMES LOWERED UNOFFICIALLY

UNDERGRADUATES IN FORM

Tokyo, June 7.

Hideo Tanaka, student of Keio University, to-day established a new unofficial Japanese record for the 3,000-meter run by covering the distance in 8 minutes, 37-2/5 seconds.

The world's record in this event is 8 minutes, 20-2/5 seconds and was established by Paavo Nurmi, the "Flying Finn," in 1926 at Stockholm.

Kosukito Kikumoto, of Bunrika University, established a new record for the 16-pound shotput which he heaved 44.76 feet.

The world's shotput record is 53 feet, 1-1/2 inch, and was established by Leo Sexton of America in 1932.

TRACK & FIELD

FILIPINO ATHLETES IN JAPAN

PLACED THIRD IN MEET

Osaka, June 9.

Competing with the flower of Japan's track and field athletes, including 1932 world Olympic contestants, the invading Filipino athletes, making their first appearance, placed third in a triangular meet to-day at the Koshien stadium near here.

The Japanese were divided into two teams, East Japan and West Japan, the former boasting the Olympic stars Yoshioka and Nishida. The final point score was East Japan 117 1/2; West Japan, 100; Philippines 69 1/2. The meet was run off under ideal conditions.

Miguel White was the star of the visitors, setting a new Japanese record of 53.4 seconds in capturing the 400-metre hurdles event.

Herman Candari, of the University of the Philippines, was the only other Filipino to take a first place. He captured the 400 metres in 50.2 seconds.

Other Filipino scorers were Bill Ray, third in the discus, Wenceslao Innasie, second in the high hurdles; A. V. Antonio, second in the javelin; and Rafael Navallasca, third in the 100 metres; and Miguel Sujeca, third in the pole vault.

NEW JAPAN RECORD

Yoshioka took the 100 metres in 10.3 seconds, a new Japan record, flashing the form that made him Japan's premier speed merchant.

This race attracted the most attention as Navallasca, who holds the Philippine record for the distance and three times conquered Rafael De Leon, who in the Far Eastern Olympics at Manila a year ago unexpectedly defeated Yoshioka.

Other outstanding performances by the Japanese included: T. Tajima, won the broad jump at 7.74 metres; Oshima, captured the hop, step and jump with a distance of 15.54 metres; and T. Murakami, the high hurdles in 14.6 seconds.

The Philippines placed second in the 1,600-metre relay event which East Japan won in 3 minutes, 20.4 seconds. The Philippines was 20.4 in the 400-metre relay.

The Filipinos are scheduled next to take part in a meet on June 12 at Nagoya and then in Tokyo on June 15-16. Another meet is

SERIAL STORY—

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHAPTER XLIII

Milliecent remained flattened against the wall of the doorway. She could hear the pounding of her heart. She could also hear the pounding of steps on the pavement as Vera Duchene and Bob Calise came walking directly toward her.

What had brought them? Had they trailed her in some way, or was it merely a coincidence that she had blundered upon them? She had no means of knowing, but she sensed that were she discovered in this deserted side street she would probably never live to tell of her encounter. Ever since she had seen those sinister dark spots in the room where Norman Hagg had gone to call upon the mysterious Phyllis Faulconer she had realized the desperation of the people who were opposing her.

The murder of Dringold and the murder of Harry Felding had somehow not driven the situation home to her, as had those sinister marks. Vera Duchene and her escort walked directly past the doorway. Milliecent caught her breath in a quick intake as Vera Duchene's arm almost brushed against her shoulder. She expected momentarily to hear Vera cry out, "There she is!" and to feel Bob Calise's hands clutching at her throat.

As they walked past she heard Vera Duchene saying, "Everything's under cover now. We can let them investigate and be damned." "No," Bob said, "there remains that girl. We've got to turn her in on the Dringold job." Vera Duchene said crisply, "That's all we need to do. Sergeant Mahoney will." Milliecent was unable to hear exactly how Vera Duchene finished but she thought she knew exactly what the pair were planning to do. She would have given much could she have heard some bit of conversation which would have given her an inkling of what had happened to Norman Hagg, but realized this would be expecting too much. She was thankful enough that she had remained undiscovered.

She dared not venture forth from the protection of the doorway until after she heard the steps of the pair recede in the distance and knew that they had rounded the corner. Even then she waited for almost a minute before venturing to walk down toward the main traffic artery. She wanted to get a taxi and go at once to the hotel where she was registered as Milliecent Jones. She knew that if Norman Hagg could break loose he would communicate with her there.

And she surmised that Vera Duchene and Bob Calise must have called on the mysterious Phyllis Faulconer who maintained the undercover apartment which seemed to be headquarters for all of the plotting. Milliecent caught a cab at the corner, went at once to the hotel. The clerk eyed her with casual curiosity. "Has anyone been calling for me?" she asked.

"No," he replied.
"No telephone calls?"
"None."

"You're sure?"
"Of course I'm sure. No one's called you."

"Listen," she told him, "I'm going out, but if anyone calls for me, would you mind telling them that Miss Jones left a message that she is quite all right and will be back here to pick up any messages in about an hour from now?"

She slipped a dollar from her purse and said, "It's really most important."

The flabby fingers of the man behind the desk closed on the dollar. "Okay," he said, showing the first bit of friendly interest he had displayed toward her. "I'll see that your message is delivered, Miss Jones. But who shall I deliver it to? Just anyone that calls?"

"Just anyone that calls," she said. "Anyone who asks for me."

Her cab was waiting at the door. She decided to risk detection by going back to the apartment house and ascertaining if the cab driver had discovered anything in his tour of the apartments.

She entered the cab, gave the driver the address and sat back against the cushions, her mind racing with a confused sequence of thoughts.

She barely noticed the passing of time until the cab arrived at the apartment house. She saw the friendly cab driver sitting behind the wheel of his cab which was parked at the curb. She paid off the driver of the cab in which she was riding, walked up to her friend and said in a low voice, "Did you find anything?"

He gave a start of surprise, whirled around to face her and said, "Take it easy, Miss. That's a radio car over there at the curb. Someone's made a squawk and a couple of radio cars are investigating apartment 309. There's been a fight up there and somebody got hurt."

"Did they say who it was?"
"No. Just a bunch of bustered furniture and some blood stains. I took a squint at the directory. A Jane named Phyllis Faulconer lives there."

"Did you cover the rest of the apartments?"
"Yes, but I couldn't find any trace of your friend. They all looked up and up to me, that is, those that answered. Three or four of them didn't answer the door, or maybe they'd gone to bed, or they might be out—but, listen, Miss, if there's a beef anywhere you'd better beat it because the guys from the radio car are going to be out in a minute and there's a guy with them who's probably the chap who made the squawk in the first place. He looks like he was the guy you was telling me about that was on the force."

She flashed him a grateful glance and, acting on impulse, gave him her hand.

He patted it reassuringly and said, "Hop in and let me drive you around the corner."

"No," she said, "I'll walk. I'll make it all right."

She walked rapidly around the corner and noticed with some annoyance that she had developed a habit of looking back over her shoulder to see if she were being followed.

She found that, without conscious volition on her part, she was mechanically retracing the course which had been taken by the taxicab when she had fled from the apartment and suddenly realized that her route would take her past the big garage which the cab driver had pointed out to her when she had asked him to park.

A garage! That must be where Vera Duchene and Bob Calise had been going when they had walked so rapidly and purposefully past her.

She increased her pace, walked to the garage, entered it and smiled at the man on duty.

"A man and a woman came in here about half an hour ago," she said, "for an automobile. I wonder if there's any chance you would remember the car or the people."

"What sort of car?" he asked.
"I don't know, but I think it was a cabriolet—not one that's stored here regularly."

"He shook his head. "No," he said. "I don't think there's been a transient car in here all evening. Most of our stuff is storage by the month. Seems to me we did have a transient too, but I can't remember the people. I'm new here. Lots of 'em I don't know."

An idea flashed quickly through her mind. "Do you store a car for a Phyllis Faulconer?" she asked.

"Why, yes," he said. "A black sedan, license number 033410."

"That's the one," she said excitedly. "Could I see it for a moment?"

He looked at her suspiciously, but she gave him a reassuring smile. "I just want to look at it," she said. "I'm very much interested."

"It's on the second floor," he said. "I guess I should go up with you, but you look all right, so I'll let you go on up by yourself. I've got to stay on duty down here."

She thought then that there was something peculiarly significant about his expression. It was as though he wanted to warn her of some impending danger, yet dared not do so.

She started toward the stairs to the second floor, but turned when she had gone a few steps to give him one more glance.

This time there could be no mistake. He was looking at her with an expression of pity, but he turned his eyes away almost as soon as she encountered his gaze.

Milliecent decided that, after all, it was merely her imagination. She climbed the stairs to the second floor. An elevator was in one corner of a big room, divided into stalls in which automobiles were parked, side by side.

Milliecent found the car she wanted—a black sedan, license 033410. She wondered if perhaps there might be some clue in this car which would help her locate Norman Hagg.

She opened the door opposite the driver's seat, climbed into the front seat and leaned forward to inspect the registration certificate.

She felt the springs of the car away.

Someone had been crouched in the rear of that car, someone who was now moving.

She looked back over her shoulder, and encountered a clutching hand reaching out for her arm.

She screamed.

FORGED BANKNOTES

MAN SENT TO PRISON FOR SIX MONTHS

Six months' hard labour was passed on Ng Tong, 53, unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on a charge of having possession of forged banknotes.

Detective-Sergeant Allen appeared for the prosecution and in outlining the case stated that about 7.35 p.m. on May 27, Principal Chinese detective Shek Tui, accompanied by Chinese detective C82, went to the Tai Ping Yeung cafe in Lai-chikok Road in consequence of information received.

The defendant and another man were seen in the cafe sitting at a table. Shek Tui approached defendant and asked him whether he had in his possession some forged banknotes. The man made a move towards his left knee, but his hand was caught and when his trouser leg was lifted up a small newspaper packet was seen stuck in his stocking.

The two men were then taken back to the Shamshuipo Police Station, where they were searched by Sergeant Bentley. The packet was found to contain four $10 notes and one $50 note, all of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

J. M. Pinna, a clerk of the Chartered Bank, stated in evidence that all the banknotes were forgeries. The $10 notes were distinguished by the printing, which was very badly done, and the difference of the colour, the pictures on the face of the notes were blurred and the paper was of poor quality. The paper of the forged $50 note was slightly thicker than the genuine. The picture on the back of the note was of a different colour and the numbers were unevenly printed.

Corroborative evidence was given by P. C. D. Shek Tui, Chinese detective C82, Lui Luk, Sergeant J. R. Bentley, Sergeant T. Daley and Detective-Sergeant J. Allen.

Defendant alleged that on the night in question he went to the cafe with a man named Kwong Shun, who asked him to keep a packet for him. When defendant refused to do so, Kwong Shun stuck it into defendant's stocking and just after the detectives arrived and he was taken into custody.

resident officer at Kaigan, has been hurriedly summoned to Tientsin by General Umetsu, for the ostensible purpose of reporting upon "the arbitrary arrests" at Kaigan on June 5 of four civilian employees of the Kwantung Army travelling in unlicensed lorries. They were arrested by Chinese troops under the command of General Sung Cheh-yuan, Governor of Charhar.

Although they were released the following day, the Kwantung Army is highly incensed at the arrests which are regarded as symptomatic of the strong anti-Japanese sentiment throughout Charhar. Renter.

STILL IN CHARHAR

Peiping, June 12. Japanese troops are still in Charhar. General Chin Teh-chua, China's Civil Affairs Commissioner for Charhar, arrived at this city from Kaigan to-day and was interviewed by the United Press. He denied that Japanese troops who had advanced to a point midway between Kuyuan and Dolonor had withdrawn into Jehol.

They had been on manoeuvres, he said, and when these were finished they had only withdrawn a few miles, but were still in Charhar. General Tan Takahashi, Japanese Military Attaché at the Embassy here, arrived at the same time as General Chin. United Press.

STRANGE CHARGE

Changchun, June 13. A strange statement, charging the Charhar military authorities with causing the detention of three staff members of the Japanese Special Affairs Bureau at Dolonor for a day, was made by a spokesman of the Kwantung Military Headquarters yesterday.

The statement said that on May 30 the three Japanese set out on a journey to Changpei from Dolonor. Their whereabouts were unknown until June 6, when the Japanese Special Affairs Bureau at Dolonor was informed that they were detained by Chinese troops at Changpei and had been imprisoned for twenty-four hours.

The Kwantung authorities regard this action on the part of the Chinese in Charhar as unwarranted. Central News.

MOVING EMBASSY

Nanking, June 13. It is learned in reliable circles that the American Government is seriously considering the removal of the American Legation to Nanking after its elevation to the status of Embassy.

In the event of its removal, the one battalion of American infantry stationed in Tientsin and the American Legation guards in Peiping will be evacuated. Central News.

NEW EXECUTIVES IN PICTURES

New York, June 12. The four owners of the United Artists Pictures Corp., Miss Mary Pickford, Mr. Charles Chaplin, Mr. Douglas Fairbanks and Mr. Samuel Goldwyn, to-day announced the replacement of Mr. Joseph Schenck as supreme head of the corporation by Mr. A. L. Lichtman and Mr. Maurice Silverstone.

Mr. Lichtman, a Hungarian, and vice-president of the corporation since 1926, will be in charge of the United States' end and Mr. Silverstone, present managing-director at London, will have charge of the British end. Renter.

KOWLOON RESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION

PUBLIC UTILITY CHARGES REDUCTION SOUGHT

The Kowloon Residents' Association Committee, at their monthly meeting held in St. Andrew's Church Hall on Tuesday, decided to apply to the Hongkong and China Gas Co., Ltd., and the Hongkong Telephone Company for a reduction in general charges and the hire of equipment.

It was also decided to ask the China Light and Power Company whether they would consider a reduction in rates, in view of the fact that the Hongkong Electric Company had already given a reduction.

There were present—Mr. Li Chor Chi (President), Mr. T. B. Wilson (Vice President), Mr. J. H. Shaw (Hon. Secretary), Messrs. L. D'Almeida e Castro, C. M. Hall, F. C. Mow Fung, W. Goldenberg, C. M. Manners, H. F. Un, R. Pestonji, D. W. Muntion, I. N. Murray, W. J. Ratley, E. Kern, Lam Ming Fan, Lt. Col. E. D. Matthews and Dr. R. de Sousa.

Apologies for absence were received from Mr. R. P. Phillips and the Rev. J. R. Higgins.

A letter from the Postmaster General was read advising the association that a mail notice would shortly be displayed in a small glass case to be fixed over the posting box at the Kowloon Post Office.

The question of markets in Kowloon was freely discussed and resulted in the Secretary being instructed to write to the Government requesting that the vacant ground on the west side of Tsai Sha Tsui market be utilized for the erection of a one storey open market, similar to that now in use in Mongkok.

The report of the sub-committee appointed to investigate the bus services operating on the mainland was read and it was decided to let this matter lie on the table until next meeting, as a further letter was expected from the Bus Company after their Board Meeting during the current month.

Public Utility Charges

In connection with prevailing public utility charges, the sub-committee appointed to cover the Hongkong and China Gas Co. Ltd. and the Hongkong Telephone Company reported and the Secretary was instructed to write to these Companies asking for a reduction in general charges and the hire of equipment. The Secretary was further instructed to write The China Light and Power Co. Ltd. asking whether they would consider a reduction in rates, in view of the fact that the Hongkong Electric Co. Ltd. had already given a reduction.

The Public Utilities sub-committee was requested to explore the possibilities of a reduction in rates by the "Star" Ferry Company.

The Rev. J. R. Higgins was appointed as the association's representative on the Board of Education.

It was reported that the clock on the tower at the Railway Station had been out of order for the last few weeks, and as this is the principal clock on the mainland the Secretary was instructed to write the manager of the Railway Station asking if it would not be possible to get the clock thoroughly overhauled.

Chatham Road Sea Frontage

The Secretary was instructed to write Government pointing out that to date no effort had been made to improve the strip of Crown land extending from Signal Hill to the Kowloon Football Club stand on the east side of Chatham Road, and to ask when this work will be put in hand.

NORMANDIE AT PLYMOUTH

WELCOMED AFTER RECORD RUN

London, June 12. Plans for welcoming the great French liner Normandie, on her arrival at Plymouth to-day after a record run of 4 days 2 hours and 25 minutes from New York pier to Bishop's Rock, Scilly Isles, were interfered with owing to heavy seas.

Four hawfers connecting the tender with the Customs and immigration officers on board snatched before communication with the liner was established. Passengers were unable to leave the ship for several hours.

Before their departure, the Deputy Lord-Mayor of Plymouth and other civic officials went on board and congratulated the Commander of the vessel on the great achievement, representing an average speed for the Atlantic crossing of 30.35 knots. British Wireless.

BUILDING SOCIETY PROGRESS

STRIKING FIGURES DEVEALED

London, June 12. At the Conference of the National Association of Building Societies at Folkestone, it was stated that the Societies' total assets had expanded in 1934 to £555,000,000, compared with £501,000,000 in 1933. The amount advanced increased in the same period from £103,000,000 to £124,000,000.

For the first time on record, the number of borrowers exceeded 1,000,000. Share investors and depositors had also increased, with the result that movement now controlled 3,616,860 accounts. British Wireless.

PHILIPPINE SUGAR

Washington, June 12. The Agriculture Adjustment Administration has announced that beginning June 15, Philippine sugar entering the United States against the 1935 quota, will be weighted and tested for polarisation. Polariscopic tests are taken to indicate the sugar content of raw sugar. Renter.

It was noted that the filling in of the area adjacent to Granpian Road was progressing and the Secretary was asked to write to Government expressing the thanks of the Association.

A letter from Sir William Peel was read thanking the Association for the flowers sent to Lady Peel, and also expressing his appreciation of the help and co-operation given him by the K.R.A. during his term of office as Governor.

The Secretary was instructed to write the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, O.B.E., tendering the congratulations of the Association on the honour recently conferred upon him by H. M. the King.

It was reported that the prices charged for stationery at the Central British School were very much higher than those which apply for similar articles at local shops, and the Secretary was instructed to write the Director of Education asking if it would not be possible for children to purchase their stationery from outside sources.

And what a camera
it is—this new Cine-
Kodak Eight. Employing a new film-saving principle, it makes every foot of film go four times as far. A 25-foot roll lasts as long on the screen as the usual
100-foot 16 mm. roll.
And the film price includes the fixing.

Cine-Kodak Eight is compact, light and pocket-size—yet makes splendid movies of unfailing precision. Its Kodak Anastigmat f.8.8 lens requires no focusing, has built-in exposure guide, motor drive, automatic focus indicator, and eye-level finder.

Also available with f.5.7 and f.1.9 lenses with telephoto lens. Efficient and inexpensive. Cine-Kodak Eight brings movie making within the reach of everyone. See it and some of its sparkling movies at

SEARCH FOR OIL

POSSIBLE BRITISH RESOURCES

MANY WANT LICENCES

Many applications for licences to search for petroleum in Britain are expected to be made under the regulations which have been framed under the Petroleum Production Act, 1934. The regulations have been laid on the tables of both Houses of Parliament, and will become effective, if not disapproved, within 28 days.

It is known that interests well equipped with technical knowledge and financial resources are ready to engage actively in the search for oil as soon as prospecting licences can be obtained. Applications may be made as from June 1 next.

Provision is made by the regulations for two kinds of licence—(1) prospecting and (2) mining. The prospecting licence has a period of three years, which may be extended year by year to a maximum period of five years. The mining licence is for a term of 50 years, which may be extended to a maximum of 75 years.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

Licences will be for reasonably large areas. This will enable licensees to carry out prospecting and drilling operations with a view to discovering complete oil structures within the areas granted them, and to develop under a scheme of unit development any petroleum which may exist. The regulations and model clauses have been specially designed to ensure that the work shall be carried out by concerns which are properly equipped both financially and technically, and capable of undertaking the task of prospecting for oil in accordance with the best modern oilfield practice.

Clauses have been inserted dealing with questions such as the avoidance of harmful methods of working, the protection of mines and coal seams, the disposal of waste oil, salt water and refuse, the health and safety of workers, the minimum distance of bore-holes from the boundaries of the licensed area, and the deposit by the licensee of security.

The petroleum regulations permit applications for licences from foreigners and from companies incorporated outside Great Britain, but provide that an operating company must be formed and registered in Britain.

The licensee will have a monopoly in the area for which he holds a licence, and each licence will contain a provision for the payment of sums agreed between the Board of Trade, with the consent of the Treasury, and the licensee, as minimum annual payments and royalties.

ROYALTY RATES

It is provided that the rate of royalty on crude oil shall never be less than 3s. per ton, nor more than 6s. per ton. Royalty on casing-head petroleum spirit recovered shall not be less than 1d. per gallon and shall not exceed 2d. per gallon.

All operations within the licensed areas are to be carried out in such a manner as not to interfere unnecessarily with the amenities of the locality.

The Board of Trade may require that crude oil or products shall be sold for consumption in Great Britain or Northern Ireland, so long as they can be consumed in the home market. The holder of a prospecting licence must carry out a scheme of prospecting or development to be agreed with the Board of Trade and set out in a schedule to the licence.

The application fees payable will be £20 for a prospecting

WIDE BELTS

On A Blue And White
Crepe Dress

FOR EVENING WEAR

"Wide Belts". The wide belt on this model is kinder to the figure than the straight folded one. The gown is well cut, in that it is suitable for informal evening wear as well as for after-dinner wear, being developed in printed blue and white crepe finished with plain white organdy.

FASHION NOTES

ONE of the smartest summer colours is "Carbon blue," that is a deep purplish blue, almost black. There is a great deal of red, wine red, strawberry red, and tomato red. Every shade of purple is starred, from claret-purple blues, to lilacs and mauves. There are Malmesbury pinks, pinks like strawberry cream, cyclamen pinks, vivid shot greens, bronze, amber, dreamy greys, primrose yellows, and pale lime green.

Black is, as usual, the favourite tone for formal afternoon attire, as well as for informal evening wear.

There are decidedly conflicting elements in the silhouette style—these are more apparent in the evening picture.

There are two distinct day silhouettes. One has a gored skirt, not very full, but circular, short, straight sleeves and belted bodice slightly bloused. The other is cut on the straight with shirred or gathered fullness at the front of the neck and below the waist. Sometimes we find short puffed sleeves, a tiny waistline and bell-shaped broad skirt, with the hips smoothly outlined.

However, despite the wide variety of silhouettes, there is one characteristic that is peculiar to every one of the new lines, they are all ultra-feminine. Even tail-coat suits for daytime are given blouses with frilly ruffles and jabots, and the blouses themselves are in sheer silks and cottons that are transparent.

Licensees and £40 for a mining licence. The security deposit will have relation to the size of the area: 50 per square mile in the case of a prospecting licence, and £20 per square mile in the case of a mining licence, subject to a minimum of £100 for a prospecting licence and £1,000 for a mining licence.

Special provisions apply in the event of the licensee becoming controlled, directly or indirectly, by an alien or company incorporated outside Great Britain.

Stormy Scene In Council

SOCIALISTS CLASH WITH I.L.P.

ABRUPT ENDING

A heated "scene" at Glasgow Town Council, during which personalities were indulged in, ended abruptly by Lord Provost Sir Alexander Swan vacating his chair.

The Corporation had been in session for under two hours when the uproar began unexpectedly, and in consequence of the adjournment an accumulation of important business was not dealt with.

The scene developed at question time while Mr. Joe Payne (I.L.P.) was inquiring about the jerky and noisy condition of certain trams.

His retorts to certain interruptions were objected to by some Labour members, and amid the cross-talk Mr. John S. Ratcliffe (Soc.), who was standing in one of the passages, told Mr. Payne—"Get on with your question, you dirty little rat."

DEMAND FOR WITHDRAWAL

The Lord Provost immediately called for a withdrawal of the remark, which Mr. Payne indicated that he intended to ignore with contempt.

Depute River Bailie Mrs. Mann (Soc.), who had previously had a heated exchange with Mr. Payne, declared that if Mr. Ratcliffe withdrew the remark she would substitute "dirty pig."

Mr. Ratcliffe, after returning to his place in the chamber, said he was prepared to withdraw, but added that a man who stood up in the Corporation and insulted a woman deserved a stronger term.

Amid considerable din the Lord Provost called on Mrs. Mann to withdraw her remark, to which she replied—"I will substitute he is a loathsome pig."

LORD PROVOST'S REBUKE

"I cannot understand this exhibition; I will not allow these personalities," declared the Lord Provost sternly. "You are supposed to be here in the interests of the public and supposed to be sincere in your actions. I call upon you, Mrs. Mann, to withdraw that remark."

Mrs. Mann—I prefer to leave the Corporation.

Mr. Joe Taylor (I.L.P.)—Oh yes, she will resign and then change her mind as she did the last time.

In the pandemonium that followed Treasurer P. J. Dollan endeavoured to restore peace. He appealed to his Socialist colleagues to conduct themselves in a proper manner and expressed the hope that the request made by the Lord Provost would be responded to.

Mr. Victor Warren (Mod.) hoped that Treasurer Dollan would show them a good example, and Mr. Warren was promptly reminded by the Lord Provost of the proverb of seeing the mote in one's neighbour's eye and forgetting the beam in one's own eye.

Mr. Payne, speaking amid continued uproar, said—"If Mrs. Mann is not to withdraw then she should adopt the alternative suggested by herself. If she does not, then I am to suggest to the leaders of my party that the business should not be allowed to proceed."

Mrs. Mann then rose and, indicating the I.L.P. members, referred to "that crowd over there." The remainder of her remarks were lost in the noise and interruptions from I.L.P. members, several of whom were on their feet at the same time.

At this point the Lord Provost abruptly ended the meeting by asking the Council officer to remove the M.Cs. His action came as a surprise, and a number of members were still wrangling while he was leaving the chamber.

ANNE SHIRLEY'S RISE TO FAME

SUCCESS CAN'T TURN HER HEAD

SHE EVEN LIVES WITHIN HER INCOME

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood. Anne Shirley is headed for the topmost brackets of moviedom. You can hear that prediction on almost any corner in Hollywood these days.

And I'm convinced it will be borne out. Certainly she's one of the six best bets among our younger screen actresses. No girl with her enthusiasm and sanity, coupled with obvious acting ability, could miss going clear to the top.

Sanity! You don't often hear that word in connection with Hollywood actresses. Neither do you expect to find it in a 17-year-old girl with a healthy mop of reddish blond hair and no freckles.

Anne has it, though. Proof is the manner in which she lives. Her scale of living hasn't begun to keep pace with her advance in the screen. That in itself is a rarity in Hollywood. The usual thing is to live way beyond your income.

However, this young actress has learned from experience that such living doesn't pay. Having supported her mother and herself since she first entered pictures, she has long known the value of a dollar. Neither has she forgotten the days when their budget was limited to $10 a week.

Perhaps mother finds it advisable to inject a wise word now and then. But on the whole Anne has proved herself a pretty sensible girl.

Even when she signed her contract with R.K.O. last fall she was perfectly content to go on living in their tiny three-room apartment above a hardware store.

Not until she was cast for the title role in "Anne of Green Gables" and future success became certain, did they move into their present apartment building.

Then they took a very small apartment, moving into a larger one at the front of the building only a few weeks ago, when Anne's first option was taken up.

GIFT THRILLS HER

The budding star walked the five blocks to and from the studio every day, too—except on rainy days.

Then she took a taxi. She wanted a car, but didn't feel she could afford it yet.

However, when her option was taken up, she selected the auto she wanted, a small black coupe, and paid a deposit of $50 on it.

"If I'm lucky, I'll be able to get it in a couple of months," she thought.

Then out of a clear sky a shiny black coupe arrived—a present from studio executives on her 17th birthday.

I dropped by her apartment that afternoon. Anne was standing in the window admiring the small car in the street below.

Really you should have seen her. Her first car! And she wanted to tell the whole world it was hers.

A table was loaded with other presents. Even the trick yellow overalls she was wearing were a present from her mother. But the big brown eyes could see only the car.

ZEAL IS AMAZING

"I feel crazy to-day," she expressed enthusiasm before, but never in such quantities as it fairly bubbles out of her.

The zeal with which she attacks work and play alike is overwhelming.

The young actress is tremendously popular with Hollywood's younger crowd. And she likes the crowd. She enjoys her school girl romances, too. Despite the fact that she's a potential star and studies under a private tutor at the studio, she's still a school girl—until June, when she gets her high school diploma.

"DATED" JACKIE COOGAN

Jackie Coogan is one of her old suitors. She's seen with Tom Brown frequently now. And a short time ago she went with the same boy for three months. That was a record.

"I used to go dancing or to shows with boys just because I liked the idea of going out," she says. "But I don't do that any more. Unless I really like a boy, I can't be bothered."

She still likes to go out, though, particularly if the evening's schedule calls for dancing. That's her favourite pastime. But she neither smokes nor drinks. She's tried both and doesn't care for either. So she leaves these pleasures for others.

INTERESTED IN PICTURES

Anne's chief interest these days centres around pictures. Even when she isn't working she spends a great deal of time prowling around the studio to watch other players. There isn't a picture made on the R.K.O. lot that escapes her.

And when she isn't watching them being made, she's in a theatre looking at the finished product.

"I must be an awful judge of films, though," she confesses. "I never get a kick out of big pictures that everyone else thinks are so good. But I fairly wallow in pictures most persons claim are terrible."

When she isn't all wrapped up in pictures or the making of them, young Miss Shirley spends most of the sunlight hours at the beach. She loves to swim and fortunately doesn't sunburn easily.

Now that she has her own car for transportation, she expects to spend most of her spare time this summer in a bathing suit.

Until recently Anne was known as Dawn O'Day, her real name, and her hair was almost black. Photographic reasons prompted her to change it to its current reddish colour.

And she changed her name to Anne Shirley when she became the title character in "Anne of Green Gables."

aimed, plopping down on theavenport and drawing her knees up under her chin—a freedom the overalls permitted. "I'm always a little bit crazy. But to-day I'm utterly mad. So don't mind anything I do or say."

While it was the new auto which captivated her for the moment, Anne usually has that same girlish enthusiasm for everything. I've

Leslie Charteris, of England, successor to Edgar Wallace, late writer of best-seller detective stories, is shown in his New York hotel suite. He is the creator of "Alias the Saint," a character that appears in his 20 books.

PACIFISM UNKNOWN

MEANINGLESS WORD IN MANY PARTS

Vienna, June 2.

In the vocabulary of University students in Austria and the Danubian states generally "pacifism" is an almost non-existent word.

Belief in peaceful methods of settling disputes is present in no student body.

"Turn the other cheek" is about as popular in Central and South-east Europe as a bull in a tea shop.

Even in student-body affairs an appeal to the fist is considered as a much more persuasive method of arguing than speeches from the debating-hall platform or the round-table conference; and to the extent that the various rival bodies of all political colours can evade the police this method is practiced.

Socialist students profess to be opposed to international wars on the grounds that such wars are the tools of capitalism; but for a civil war to overthrow so-called bourgeois capitalism in their own respective countries they are ardent advocates.

It is zeal they demonstrated in Austria not only several times immediately after the great war but also in July, 1927, and February, 1934, on both of which occasions Socialist revolts in which they participated were suppressed only at a cost of scores of dead and hundreds wounded.

Student Christian movements such as those in the U.S.A. and Great Britain and some parts of South America, which have tended for a decade to develop into centres for pacifist propaganda, are practically unknown in this part of the world.

PRAGUE WARFARE

Among all races and religions represented in the university student life a definite anti-Pacifist militancy is dominant. At the moment the racial nationalists form probably the majority in every student body. What such a form of nationalism signifies was demonstrated recently in Prague when at intervals for several days the police had to be on the alert to prevent the Czechs and Germans from killing each other and demolishing furniture during a fight over the possession of the historical insignia of Charles University, which both claimed.

Also it was demonstrated by the Nazis in Austria in months of activity in the manufacture and small bombs, some even in the buildings of their own schools. And, likewise in the intermittent anti-Semitic riots in Austria, Hungary and Rumania and the Serb versus Croat riots in Yugoslavia.

Even the Jews in Danubia are ready for a scrap. In Vienna university, for instance, there are several so-called student corporations composed exclusively of Jews which cultivate the tradition of the German students of face-slashing in sabre duels whose justification is said to be the stamina such duels instil in the participants. That these same Jews are not pacifists in their outlook toward either internal or international politics goes, of course, without saying.—United Press.

Virginia Briceo is only 17 and seemingly too young to be impressed by royalty. While in Budapest the daughter of Powel Briceo, wealthy American operator, had the opportunity (most girls deem it an honour) of dancing with the Prince of Wales. Virginia, however, claims that he was "not so hot as a dancer," and that she'd "lots rather dance with the boys back home."

The Rev. Desmond Morse-Boycott, London clergyman, shown with the tattered document which is now being studied by experts in the hope that it is what the clergyman believes it is, a reproduction of a letter written by Jesus. Although no trace of the writings of Jesus has ever been discovered, theological experts affirm He must have written much. The document gives the text of two letters, one said to be written by Agbarus, prince of Edessa, in Arabia; the other stated to be the reply of Jesus. The Rev. Morse-Boycott said the document in his possession was printed in Britain centuries ago.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET IRREGULAR YESTERDAY

New York, June 12. The following reports on the New York Stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market. Stocks today were irregular as the result of the passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn Utility Holding Company Bill by the Senate and also owing to the weakness of Chicago grains which opened lower. Industrial issues opened, but further selling caused most of the gains. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were irregular. The bonds market was mixed. Railroad issues were strong, but utility bonds were lower. S. C. & F. New York office cables. The market was moderately lower on realizing. Average daily production of petroleum for the week ending June 8 was estimated at 2,643,000 barrels, compared with 2,576,000 barrels the previous week. The Edison Electric Institute estimates weekly electricity production at 1,724,000,000 kwh, an increase of 4.2 per cent. from the corresponding period of last year. New York and Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: Cotton. We expect a continuation of narrow limits. There was some hedging in "spot" cotton and the Government was a moderate buyer. Wheat. There was some heavy hedging in the new movement and the market lacked support. The Government weekly report is bullish. Private estimates of the crop are increasing. Rubber. Early in the day, sellers re-bought their sales. Dealers and Commission houses continue to be buyers. The market is very firm. Sugar. The market was dull and featureless, with perhaps a shade less energy.

CHEERED BY LARGE CROWDS

London, June 12. Soon after Lord Dawson left Sandringham in the afternoon, after his visit in connection with the King's indisposition, His Majesty went for an hour's drive in a closed car, being enthusiastically greeted along the roads.

The weather was fine while the King was enjoying the ride, but there was a heavy downpour of rain after his return to Sandringham.—Reuter.

The Queen returned to Buckingham Palace this afternoon from Sandringham, where the King, who is slightly indisposed, will remain for the present. His Majesty is suffering from bronchial catarrh, which is slow in disappearing because the King is fatigued by the efforts of the last few weeks.

A bulletin states that a period of not less than two weeks' rest will be required in order that His Majesty may recover his usual health.

ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED

He has accordingly been compelled to cancel certain of his engagements. These include a visit to the opera to-night, where the American prima donna, Grace Moore, is appearing in "La Boheme" and a Court ball to-morrow at which the Prince will lead the Queen into the white and gold ballroom at Buckingham Palace, in the place of the King.

Much disappointment will be caused owing to the inability of the King to attend Ascot Race meeting next week, but other members of the Royal Family will be present and the usual procedure for Ascot Week will be carried out.

NORMANDIE AT PLYMOUTH

WELCOMED AFTER RECORD RUN

London, June 12. Plans for welcoming the great French liner Normandie, on her arrival at Plymouth to-day after a record run of 4 days 2 hours and 25 minutes from New York pier to Bishop's Rock, Scilly Isles, were interfered with owing to heavy seas.

Four hawseers connecting the tender with the Customs and immigration officers on board snapped before communication with the liner was established. Passengers were unable to leave the ship for several hours.

Before their departure, the Deputy Lord-Mayor of Plymouth and other civic officials went on board and congratulated the Commander of the vessel on the great achievement, representing an average speed for the Atlantic crossing of 30.35 knots.—British Wireless.

SMASHED RECORD

Le Havre, June 13. The Normandie passed Land's End four days three hours and twenty-eight minutes from Ambrose Lightship, smashing the German liner Bremen's record by eleven hours forty-seven minutes. She averaged 30.31 knots per hour for the crossing.—United Press.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. Daniel Winston Lake, land surveyor of the P.W.D., and Miss Jennie Teresa Hutchins, of 440 Nathan Road.

The Queen will take up her residence at Windsor Castle on Saturday.

The King's indisposition is not serious.—British Wireless.

THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1935.

NATIONAL DEFENCE

Lord Mottistone, who, as Colonel J. B. Seely, was formerly Secretary for War, recently raised a debate in the House of Lords on the question of the appointment of a Minister to co-ordinate the policy and supply of the three defence forces of the nation. He did not advocate the creation of a new Ministry of Defence, but he urged that there would be considerable waste, and possible danger, if Britain proceeded with her re-armament plans without having these directed by a man giving his whole time to the job; with all the best brains, both industrial and scientific, at his disposal. The House, however, declined to endorse his proposal, which, however, received considerable support from Socialist Peers. It is obviously in the national interest that overlapping and waste should, as far as possible, be eliminated where national defence is concerned, but the Government view is apparently that the advantages of co-ordination under the control of a "superman" are more apparent than real. For one thing, the machine is so vast, its duties and necessities so multifarious, that attempts at an extreme form of unification might produce results the opposite of those intended. Moreover, where is the "superman" to be found? The world at the present time is suffering from a distinct shortage of this particular type of individual. On the Continent of Europe there are one or two supermen in action—more commonly called Dictators—but the British system does not readily yield this type, and it is probably for the general good that this should be so. As one of the Home Journals has remarked, the British nation does not take kindly to the superman, who too often is found to have feet of clay. One of the supreme lessons of the Great War was the inability of any one brain, military or political, to dominate the scene. True, there are or were plenty who were ready to claim that they had "won the war"; it would bring one nearer the truth to inquire which of the nations' leaders in the great struggle made the fewest and least grievous blunders. All of them had plenty of such to their account.

NOTES OF THE DAY

ANOTHER BITE

It seems to be generally accepted that Japan is about to take another bite off China's northern frontier. It seems that Britain and the United States and the rest will remove their embassies and legations from Peking and their consulates from Tientsin. General Doherty pipes a lively tune, and the whole of the Far East, within ear-shot, is dancing. China is removing her troops from the northern cities, has reportedly accepted every demand made upon her by Japan. China is being careful not to give the Japanese Army in the North an excuse for another "incident." And in this one can scarcely blame her. Truly, a lover of freedom would probably insist that it were better to die fighting than to bend the knee to a conqueror; but that may be an outgrown bit of ideology. Faced with the prospect of a horrible and unequal contest which can only end in defeat and a heaping of miseries upon an already sadly burdened people, the Nanking Government is doing the most sensible, if least spectacular thing, in submitting for the moment to Japan's demand. But if, as her political leaders insist is true, Japan hopes to benefit some day soon from a warm friendship with the Chinese people, we suggest that her militarists are throwing obstacles in the way of her progress towards this end. She is sowing seeds in China which, when the time comes to reap the harvest, may have grown to such lusty strength as will dull the greedy pick.

STUBBORN STAND

Japan's oft-repeated policy with respect to China, a policy allegedly intended to improve the lot of the Chinese people and incidentally benefit Japan, commences to smack of selfishness when considered in the light of Tokyo's refusal to collaborate with foreign experts in seeking a remedy for China's monetary ills. It was reported yesterday that the British invitation to Japan to join an international conference at Nanking, at which experts will endeavour to find a solution to these economic problems, had been declined. The only comment was that such an act of collaboration would be contrary to Japan's fixed policy in China. It would seem then that the Japanese ideal of hegemony in Asia and the welfare of China were somehow incompatible. We wonder whether the rather worn excuse of "China's welfare" is to be advanced when Japanese battalions are ensconced in Peking and Tientsin?

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT

BACKLASH

Time spent on the steering gear of the car is well spent, since it is such an important unit.

If the steering gear is in first class order there should be the minimum of backlash, that is, very little to and fro movement of the steering wheel before the action affects the deflection of the front wheels.

If too pronounced, backlash allows the front wheels to "flap" when an obstruction is encountered and the blow imposes an excessive strain on the parts concerned.

Backlash is due to an accumulation of wear in the numerous joints of the system and in the steering mechanism itself. When the movement of the steering wheel is more than half an inch in each direction it is advisable to have the system overhauled and adjusted by a competent mechanic.

The cost is not heavy, while it greatly increases the pleasure of driving.

The suggestion that all the defensive resources of the country should be combined under one directing genius is, therefore, one that needs to be approached with caution. There may be room for closer liaison among the three Services, but caution seems to suggest that too much in that direction should not be attempted.

MEN WHO MADE THE JUBILEE

By EDWARD SHORTT, K.C.

PROBABLY few of the countless spectators of London's greatest day of pageantry during the Jubilee celebrations paused to consider the men whose months of work and triumphs of organisation made possible Britain's supreme tribute to the King and Queen.

The splendour and precision of the state procession and the marshalling of huge crowds were not achieved without directing ability of a very high order. "What a marvellous and unforgettable sight!" every spectator must have murmured as he watched the dazzling cavalcade pass by him.

Who were the men who planned this grand spectacle, caused every detail to be rehearsed, and witnessed their triumph?

The prime architect of this pageantry was Lord Cromer, Lord Chamberlain, and the chief organiser of this memorable day. Lord Cromer knows more about state pageants than any other man, as his duties demand. He is responsible for practically every great ceremony of Court and State.

He has been Lord Chamberlain for 15 years. It is a very long time since the office was held by one person for a comparable period. Lord Cromer's wide and exact knowledge, his patience and discretion form an ideal equipment for the post.

As a young man he saw diplomatic service in Egypt, Persia, and Russia. That was probably a valuable training for his duties today, which often require a delicate diplomacy. Most people think of the Lord Chamberlain merely as the censor of stage plays. Important as is his oversight of the theatre, it is incidental to a crowded life.

Courts, levees, state occasions, all require his survey and decision. His office work alone is immense.

Every detail of the royal progress and of the Thanksgiving Service at St. Paul's passed under his review. He is the authority on etiquette, the master of forms and usages. He has had to confer with Cabinet Ministers, with Court officials, with City dignitaries, with high military officers, with Lord Trenchard and Sir Hugh Turnbull about police and traffic arrangements; he has had to instruct and rehearse.

Probably Britain's busiest man, these many months, Lord Cromer. He is described as "the most tactful man in London." His manners, despite his vast responsibilities, are always charming.

Lord Trenchard and Sir Hugh Turnbull, in command of the Metropolitan and City police, had between them to organise a force of about 12,000 police for duty on the route. They had to provide commissariat for their "army," including the 700 six-footers who came, for the day, from Birmingham and the Home Counties. Nearly 10,000 special constables had to be drafted for traffic duties, deputising for the men on the royal way.

We know that our "policemen are wonderful." Well, they were, once again. Just British good humour does it with that extra little knack in which our police excel.

The controlling of the immense throng on the day of the parades, was but one feature of the colossal task which the police have performed. For days before, through wearying sunlit hours and for the hours after darkness when sight-seers transport gorged the London ways, they have marshalled and facilitated and piloted what has seemed to be a world on wheels.

So far as I know, and I have seen much of this gala time, the courtesy and helpfulness of the police, in conditions of unique stress, have survived splendidly.

The horses of the mounted men are invariably put through their paces before a great London ceremony. The several thousand "specials" who contributed to the perfection of the Jubilee arrangements all sacrificed their time to make themselves perfectly acquainted with their duties before the day.

The ardent sun of a perfect Jubilee day produced great demands on the kindly ministrations of the ambulance service. How quiet, prompt, and efficient were these workers!

The soldiers, too, were marvellous. How spruce and precise, how very, very British-looking, they were. How the foreigners admired them. The Navy and the Royal Air Force, likewise filling us with proper pride, were also present. Altogether 14,000 men of the Defence Forces, including the Guards and London's own Territorials, made a flashing border to the route. A grand parade, under the orders of Major-General B. N. Sergison-Brooke, G.O.C. the London District.

The Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's were responsible for the solemnities of the nation's tribute. The beauty of the service was apt to the beauty of our faith.

Let us remember our statesmen, too. The Cabinet had seen to it that Jubilee Day should be, in stateliness and splendour, what Britain wished. Sir John Gilmour, Home Secretary, has had many laborious hours. Mr. Ormsby-Gore, First Commissioner of Works, by commanding several hundred miles of timber and apparently several hundred more of tubular steel, caused to arise those grandstand cities from which Peers, M.P.s, and many other people saw the great pageant.

Think gratefully of Sir Edwin Lutyens and Sir William Rothens, who, with their artist's sense, sold what was becoming adornment for many of our streets. And of the London County Council, the Westminster City Council, and others, which have made their part of the Jubilee so fit and proper.

Remember the geniuses of the gas and electrical industries who wrought their night-time magic over Jubilee London.

And ponder, with a glow of pardonable warmth, the loyalty, the patriotic zest of the ordinary Briton, the man and woman like ourselves, the people, rich and not very rich, at this Jubilee, have shown the world that there is one great, and true, and solid Britain.

When one sees the jubilant panorama of this land, with all the streets, high and lowly, aglow with the same flags, how can one not be stirred?

The Very Idea!

IN LIGHTER VEIN

"My wife had a dream last night, and thought she was married to a millionaire."

"You're lucky. My wife thinks that in the daytime."

IN DEMAND

Manager—"From your references I see you've had four places in the last month."

Applicant—"Yes, sir, but that shows how much in demand I am."

PERTINENT

A native chieftain attended a Western dance.

He looked on for some time at the contortions of the perspiring young men and women of society as they danced. Then he turned to his hostess and said in a tone of mild astonishment, "Can't you get your servants to do this for you?"

THE LASS FOR ME

A Scotsman, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the lady of his choice.

After spending the entire day at the telegraph office, he was finally rewarded late in the evening by the answer "Yes."

"If I were you, I'd think twice before marrying a girl that kept me waiting all day for an answer," said the postmaster.

"Na, na," retorted the Scot. "The lass who waits for the cheap night rates is the lass for me."

AWKWARD

"Yes," said he, "I once had a very clever house-dog. He could always tell the difference between a gentleman and a tramp."

"And what happened to him?" asked a friend.

"Oh, I had to put him away. He bit me!"

REAL SCOTCH!

A Scottish scholar, asked for a sentence to illustrate the meaning of the word "deed," gave the following:—

"The thief was shot dead."

WARM WELCOME

A recent church notice reminds a reader of the following:—

SUBJECT:—

PALACES OF SIN

VISITORS WILL BE MADE AT HOME.

ORIGINAL IDEAS

The lifeboat essay competition in elementary schools at Home this year has resulted in a number of gems of youthful expression.

One essayist more topical than accurate writes, "Lifeboats to seamen are like Belshazzar's banquets to pedestrians."

Another, boldly plunging into metaphor, speaks of the unhappy mariners in a shipwreck, "each forming his earnest opinion that the next hour would be the last—that he would have shuffled off his mortal coil to be received into the jaws of the grim reaper."

One young philosopher points out that a baby saved from a watery grave "might make history, or when older be a general," while a budding economist remarks "it is much cheaper to keep a lifeboat service running than to pension off the dependants of the sailors and fishermen who have perished."

MORE HOWLERS

Horns and baboons are two instruments used in an orchestra. Black clouds are formed by the evaporation of dirty water.

Geoffrey Chaucer was a famous poet, who wrote Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare.

The cuckoo does not lay its own eggs.

A barbarian is a man who does not shave.

Anthony offered Caesar a cornet.

SOMETHING WRONG

The scene was the interior of a saloon in the Far West, and round the table were gathered as tough a gang as could be found in the whole of California. The game was fast and furious, the stakes were high.

Suddenly the dealer flung his cards on the table, and threateningly pulled out his sixgun.

"Boys," he shouted, "the game ain't a straight one! Slippery Sam ain't playing the hand I dealt him."

A REAL FRIGHT

The motorist was a "speed merchant," and while trying out his new car at its utmost speed, removed ten or twelve feet of a six-foot stone wall.

As he was recovering consciousness in the local hospital, the doctor (an old friend) said to him, "Don't you know me? I'm Peter."

The patient gave a start.

"Don't you know me? Why did you jump?"

"Oh," said the jumpy one, "you gave me a fright. I thought you meant Saint Peter!"

"We'll be back in about 20 minutes. I'm just going to write one poem."

DEVELOPING H.K. AS AIRPORT

MIGHT BE TERMINUS OF OCEAN AIRWAY

WARM APPROVAL GIVEN EXPANSION PLANS

Further support for a policy aiming at the full development of Hongkong as an airport is forthcoming in replies received to a questionnaire which the Telegraph has circulated to a number of prominent individuals and interests asking whether they favour action on the lines of the three following points:

- (1) Facilities being offered to Pan-American Airways with a view to making Hongkong its western terminus on the trans-Pacific Service;
- (2) Landing rights being granted to the China National Aviation Corporation for the purposes of linking up with the American Service;
- (3) The same facilities being extended to air-borne traffic, irrespective of nationality, as are now accorded to sea-borne traffic.

Below we give the views already expressed in reply to the points raised in the questionnaire.

MR. CASSIDY APPROVES

SOME QUERIES

I was agreeably surprised to learn from Mr. A. Eddy's article that there is every possibility of Hongkong becoming the terminus of the Pan-American Airways trans-Pacific service. I cannot imagine such a service paying its way for many years to come but the scheme shows remarkable enterprise which is deserving of success. We have the assurance of Sir William Peel that the question of putting Hongkong on the air map has been under consideration for some time past but it seems a pity that Imperial Airways have been so long in extending a service from Singapore to Hongkong even as a trial venture. I realize that there are political difficulties in the way but they cannot be insuperable.

Unofficial opinions from this end are hardly likely to carry much weight in Whitehall but my replies to all three of your questions are in the affirmative. I agree with the views expressed in your leading article and as one who is strongly in favour of keeping Hongkong a free port for shipping and trade I consider that all facilities should be accorded to aircraft without distinction of nationality.

P. S. Cassidy.

MR. M. K. LO'S SUPPORT

I confess that I have not given much thought to the question of Hongkong as an airport because I feel that I have not sufficient data for any comprehensive study of the subject. But, as a resident who is keenly interested in the future prosperity of the Colony, I entirely endorse the viewpoint summarised by you towards the end of your able editorial of June 11. I do not think that my present views can be better expressed than in the following words of your leading article:—"If, as is the case, we welcome ships flying the flags of any nation, there seems no logical reason why we should not adopt the same stand in regard to air-borne mails, passengers and freight. . . . Looked at from this angle, the moment would appear to call for reconsideration and possible revision of previous conceptions regarding Hongkong's aerial role. A short-sighted policy now might lose us a wonderful opportunity."

My answers to your three questions are therefore as follows:

- (1) Yes. (I assume that such facilities will not militate against the future extension of the Imperial Airways of Hongkong).
- (2) Yes.
- (3) Yes.

M. K. Lo.

(Chairman: Hongkong Rotary Club).

CONSULAR VIEW

The receipt is acknowledged of your letter of June 11, 1935, addressed to Consul General Charles L. Hoover, who is temporarily absent from the Colony, in regard to Hongkong's future as an airport.

Personally I can answer all three of your questions in the affirmative. Even officially I should naturally be inclined to answer in the affirmative the questions in regard to granting landing facilities and rights to aviation companies in which American capital is involved.

The article and editorial which you sent to this Consulate General have been read with much interest and your work in keeping this matter before your readers is sincerely appreciated.

L. H. GOULLEY,
U. S. Consul.

BRITISH VESSELS SEIZED

HELD BY JAPANESE FOR QUESTIONING

CLOSED PORT ENTERED

Takao, June 13.
The s.s. Christina Moro, 800 tons, towing the 700-ton Salvador from Hainan to Shanghai for repairs, entered the closed port of Kaikao, South-West Formosa, owing to water shortage yesterday.

After an examination, the master, who is reportedly a British subject, and of the crew, five of whom are British and forty Chinese, the port authorities announced that the reasons for the ship having put into Kaikao were unsatisfactory.

The steamer has been ordered transferred to Takao for further examination. The Salvador is without a crew. Both ships are of British registry. It is understood.—Reuter.

QUETTA'S HEALTH GUARDED

BUT SALVAGE STILL IMPOSSIBLE

London, June 12.
With the transfer of the wounded to hospitals in India, the health situation in Quetta is reaching normality. Stringent precautions against the outbreak of an epidemic are still essential and authorities are still energetically working on problems of sanitation both in Quetta itself and in surrounding districts.

Administration of villages around Quetta has improved rapidly from day to day. In the interests of public health Quetta remains closed under guard of military and police and no indication can be given at present as to when it will be possible to recommence salvage operations. Those whose property is buried in ruins are assured by the Government of India that vigilance of authorities for the protection of private property will not be relaxed. Sir Norman Carter, Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan, has arrived at Simla to confer with the Government of India on the situation.—British Wireless.

NOVEL AERIAL BROADCAST

ACROBATIC FLYING REVEALED

London, June 12.
One novel feature of this year's annual Royal Air Force display, to be held at Hendon June 29, will be a description broadcast by a pilot engaged in acrobatic flying.

With a microphone attached to his head, he will describe every movement he makes—when he is flying upside down, when he deliberately stalls his machine, when he is diving to earth at a fabulous speed, and what he does to revert from these dangerous and unorthodox positions.—British Wireless.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

LET HIM WHO NEGLECTS TO RAISE THE FALLEN, FEAR LEST, WHEN HE FALLS, NO ONE WILL STRETCH OUT HIS HAND TO LIFT HIM UP.—Saadi.

Convicted of the theft of a pair of black gait trousers from 247, Hollywood Road, second floor, the property of Chan Cheong, aged 37, carpenter, an unemployed Chinese, Mui Yee, was sentenced to three weeks' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Leung Kwai, aged 42, street coolie, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy this morning with the theft of one tin of coffee from the Wah Cheong Shing shop, 27 Des Voeux Road. Central Inspector Smith, prosecuting, stated that defendant took the tin off the front of the shop, and was arrested by a district watchman. He admitted stealing, and said he took the tin as he thought it contained biscuits. Defendant was bound over in the sum of $15 for a period of six months.

Messrs. Carroll Bros. are in receipt of advices that the Antamok Goldfields Mining Company has declared a dividend of 20 per cent. (2 centavos per share), payable on the 30th instant. Books will close on the 24th instant.

Brought before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy this morning, Fung Kwai-on, aged 29, a farmer from the country, was charged with stealing a bag of dried passion fruit, the property of Ho Hoi, a travelling trader, on board the steamer Tung On. Complaintant and defendant had travelled down on the same boat, and while complaintant had been absent for a while, defendant took the fruit. The matter was reported to the complainors of the ship and defendant was suspected. This suspicion was confirmed when he was seen leaving the ship on its arrival in the Colony with the bag of fruit, which was valued at $2.60. Sentence of two weeks' hard labour was imposed. Inspector A. W. Smith prosecuted.

CHINA FACES WORST CRISIS SINCE SHAI WAR

give an aerial demonstration over the city to-morrow (June 13). Police have warned the population to remain calm. Midnight has passed without any overt action to enforce the ultimatum.

According to additional reports received here late this evening, the Sino-Japanese situation is now more serious than ever. The growth of tension follows upon additional Japanese demands upon China, which are a sequel of the vigorous Japanese protest to Nanking over the detention and imprisonment of four Japanese "special service men" at Changpei, Charhar, and the alleged anti-Japanese movement there. Japanese military authorities are reported to be insisting on a Chinese reply to the latest demands by midnight to-night. The Chinese Government has reportedly warned General Ho Ying-ching, Minister of War, now in Peking, to refuse to comply with this new ultimatum.

MAY BE FIGHTING

If the Japanese insist upon obedience, fighting may commence in North China at any moment.

In the meantime, Chinese leaders are conferring without interruption seeking ways and means to meet this new threat. Some see no alternative but acceptance of the test demands from Japan, though they consider them profoundly unreasonable, while others are reportedly urging the Government to abandon Communist suppression wars and endeavour to seek a reconciliation with Russia. Their object is to institute joint Sino-Russian action to deal with the Japanese menace.

CLOSE WATCH

Developments in North China have aroused the greatest interest in London and the authorities are giving the situation their closest attention.

There is no immediate threat to British interests, at least none is envisaged at the moment, says Reuter's diplomatic correspondent, and whatever may be the ultimate outcome of the present Japanese action it appears there is no question at present of any treaty breach.

Indeed, as China's Government itself agreed to the demilitarisation demand by Japan, the question must at present be considered as a primarily domestic one between Japan and China.

Reports are circulating in London with regard to preparations to remove the British Embassy to Nanking but these appear to be completely unfounded.—Reuter.

BOUND BY TRUCE

New York, June 12.
The belief that certain secret protocols attached to the so-called Sino-Japanese Tangku Truce of May, 1933, was expressed to-day in a report to the Foreign Policy Association from Mr. T. A. Bissan, who quotes diplomatic quarters in Peking as being of the opinion that these protocols embody the substance of Japan's famous "twenty-one demands."

This view, according to Mr. Bissan, would go far in explaining the importance attached to the Tangku Truce by the Japanese authorities, and the otherwise inexplicable references to this Truce which accompanied the recent demands would also supply the reason for Nanking's long list of concessions to Japan since 1933.

These concessions include revision of tariffs in Japan's favour; restoration of through railway traffic between Peking and Mukden; resumption of postal communications with Manchukuo, etc.

In constantly referring to the Tangku Truce, the Japanese authorities, under this interpretation, are in effect demanding the fulfilment of additional pledges which Nanking has hitherto been unable to carry out.—Reuter.

CHARHAR TROUBLE

Tientsin, June 13.
Lieut.-Col. Matsui, Japanese resident officer at Kalgan, has been hurriedly summoned to Tientsin by General Uematsu, for the ostensible purpose of reporting upon "the arbitrary arrests" at Kalgan on June 5 of four civilian employees of the Kwantung Army travelling in unlicensed lorries. They were arrested by Chinese troops under the command of General Sung Chieh-yuan, Governor of Charhar.

Although they were released the following day, the Kwantung Army is highly incensed at the arrests which are regarded as symptomatic of the strong anti-Japanese sentiment throughout Charhar.—Reuter.

NEW EXECUTIVES IN PICTURES

New York, June 12.
The four owners of the United Artists Pictures Corp., Miss Mary Pickford, Mr. Charles Chaplin, Mr. Douglas Fairbanks and Mr. Samuel Goldwyn, to-day announced the replacement of Mr. Joseph Schenk as supreme head of the corporation by Mr. A. L. Lichtman and Mr. Maurice Silverstone.

Mr. Lichtman, a Hungarian, and vice-president of the corporation since 1926, will be in charge of the United States' end and Mr. Silverstone, present managing-director at London, will have charge of the British end.—Reuter.

Kalgan to-day was interviewed by the United Press. He denied that Japanese troops who had advanced to a point midway between Kuyuan and Dolonor had withdrawn into Jehol.

They had been on manoeuvres, he said, and when these were finished they had only withdrawn a few miles, but were still in Charhar.

General Tan Takahashi, Japanese Military Attaché at the Embassy here, arrived at the same time as General Chin.—United Press.

STRANGE CHARGE

Changchun, June 13.
A strange statement, charging the Charhar military authorities with causing the detention of three staff members of the Japanese Special Affairs Bureau at Dolonor for a day, was made by a spokesman of the Kwantung Military Headquarters yesterday.

The statement said that on May 30 the three Japanese set out on a journey to Changpei from Dolonor. Their whereabouts were unknown until June 6, when the Japanese Special Affairs Bureau at Dolonor was informed that they were detained by Chinese troops at Changpei and had been imprisoned for twenty-four hours.

The Kwantung authorities regard this action on the part of the Chinese in Charhar as unwarranted.—Central News.

MOVING EMBASSY

Nanking, June 13.
It is learned in reliable circles that the American Government is seriously considering the removal of the American Legation to Nanking after its elevation to the status of Embassy.

In the event of its removal, the one battalion of American Infantry stationed in Tientsin and the American Legation guards in Peking will be evacuated.—Central News.

BUILDING SOCIETY PROGRESS

STRIKING FIGURES DEVEALED

London, June 12.
At the Conference of the National Association of Building Societies at Folkestone, it was stated that the Societies total assets had expanded in 1934 to £555,000,000, compared with £501,000,000 in 1933. The amount advanced increased in the same period from £103,000,000 to £124,900,000. For the first time on record, the number of borrowers exceeded 1,000,000. Share investors and depositors had also increased, with the result that movement now controlled 3,616,860 accounts.—British Wireless.

LAWN BOWLS SINGLES

FIVE MATCHES TO-DAY

CHAMPIONSHIP PROGRESS

Another five matches in the second round of the Open Singles Lawn Bowls Championship will be played this afternoon. There were originally six games fixed for to-day but the tie between E. J. Arculli and D. J. John, both of the Craigengower C. C., has been re-arranged for Monday on the Civil Service C. C. green.

Several prominent bowlers are due to play to-day. U. M. Omar, the Craigengower player, who is one of the best exponents of the game in Hongkong, is meeting G. Perkins, of the Police R. C. while B. W. Bradbury, another of the Craigengower C. C. alphas, will encounter A. Brookbank. L. Gutierrez, the Colony Champion of 1932, is to appear against H. Overy, of the Kowloon C. C.

The full programme is as follows:

WHEN JACK GOES IN DITCH

PRESENT BOWLS RULE

UNSATISFACTORY IN ENGLAND

London, May 19. Although they accept with good heart all the rest of the laws of the game that are different from those under which they learned to play in Lancashire, Cheshire, Norfolk and Suffolk, most converts to the flat green style do not care one bit for the jack-in-ditch law of the International Board game, writes G. T. Burrows.

When a jack goes into the ditch under the present green game and that of the East Anglian Federation, it is dead and play begins de novo. Under the I.B.B. game, play continues to the jack lying in the ditch until the end is finished.

There are those who argue that if the jack is driven into the ditch at the flat green game it should be restored to a spot within a yard from the ditch and in the centre of the rink. They claim that everybody playing should have the same opportunity to win the end by driving and that the only person in a rink game who are entitled to "ditch" the jack are the last men.

BEST RULE OF ALL.

This is an entirely new argument about a ditched jack, but it has some sensibility about it, for it stops driving by all except the last man, but as G. T. Burrows, I still declare that the best rule of all about the ditched jack is that when it is driven there the end is null and void, and must be replayed.

Even in Scotland (which gave us the I.B.B. game) there is going on an argument much discussion about the fate of a driven jack knocked to the side of a rink that was not properly marked off with strings. The Scottish B.A. has been asked whether a certain measured point could be taken as the boundary of a rink. Decision has not yet been received by the inquiring club, but it would appear that the rule is that all rinks and ditches should be definitely marked off upon all occasions.

In Scotland I have noticed that it is a general practice not to mark the rink off with string for ordinary club games, and only on the occasion of cup and special matches.

In England while rinks are marked off, ditches are not, and very often questions arise as to whether a driven jack is in or out of a rink. Strings should be carried right across the ditch and pegged into the back bank to ensure the establishment of a proper boundary.

UNANSWERED RIDDLE

Yet, how much easier it would all be if once the jack was in the ditch the end was declared "dead". A Norfolk player settled in London asks me why the E.B.A. does not allow positions in rinks to be changed during the course of a game. I know not the answer to his riddle. He argues that if a leader shows in the first few ends that he has lost his touch No. 2 man should be given the opportunity to attempt the proper building up of the heads.

At Ford's (Dagenham) works there is a crown green as well as a flat green, but I am told that the flat green is the one which is used by the bowler-employees in the mighty works (there are so keen upon the flat green that they are good enough to beat most Essex club teams they will meet this season).

It is always the same with North-erners who, upon arrival in London, find themselves playing singles with four woods and triples with three bowls. This plethora of wood, often produces a feeling of disgust at having so much timber to use. At first they argue that two bowls should be enough for anyone, but when they begin to appreciate the skill of end building with four bowls the desire to throw their woods away on experimental shots is forgotten in the wish to share in the joys of strategic play produced by the four-wood game.

TENNIS FIXTURES

KOWLOON DOCK WIN

BEAT SOUTH CHINA

All matches in the "B" Division tennis League which were to have been played yesterday afternoon, were abandoned owing to the heavy rain. The Kowloon Dock, however, were leading South China by five matches to one when the tie was stopped.

MATCHES FOR TO-DAY

The following matches will be played to-day in the "C" Division of the League:

Kowloon C. C. v. Kowloon Indians

A new rival for Babe Ruth's home run honours has made his appearance in the person of Dolf Camilli, young first baseman of the National League Phillies. Above he is pictured scoring his fifth home run in five games, to lead in the major league slugging specialty. Hubbell of the Giants was the victim of the fifth blow.

BRITISH TEAM WIN HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

BEAT GERMANY IN FINAL FOR THE INTERNATIONAL TITLE

The British International XI. accomplished a great performance by beating Germany by three goals to two in the final of the International Hockey Tournament at Brussels on May 11. The match lasted 1 hour 43 minutes, and for the last 30 minutes the British side were playing a man short, Dickenson having been injured.

The rules of the competition state that if the final or semi-final matches end in a draw extra time must be played. At the full time the score was two goals all. A further ten minutes each way was ordered, and at the end of this period the score was still 2-2. A further 10 minutes was then played, still no further scoring. The game was again restarted, it being decided that the first side to score should be the winners. In the third minute, from a pass by Comyn, Whitlock scored his circle through the German defence to give Britain the Championship of Europe. There were about 9,000 people in the stadium, and the British win was very popular. It was a gruelling game, in which the Germans did not hesitate to use their bodies when the British forwards reached their circle. The British side played better than in any previous game at the tournament.

German pressed from the start, and the German goalie saved well from Whitlock. Germany broke away and had had luck in not scoring on two occasions. Stuart, at left-half, was playing a great game, only to see the wing's shot go wide. It was a difficult chance. Britain next forced a shot corner, but Coulson's shot was smothered. A nice bit of work by Gregory and Whitlock nearly brought the desired goal.

THE BEST GOAL

The German forward line was very fast, and the outside-right broke away and got in a lovely centre, but the centre-forward drove hard over the bar. Several times, and eventually to save several times, in which all the splendid forwards took part, culminated in the centre-forward opening the scoring after 30 minutes. Before half-time, however, Whitlock equalised for Britain from a mace in the circle.

The game restarted at a hot pace, both defences putting in some excellent work. After 8 minutes Germany scored again, and again it was the inside-right and centre-forward that caused the trouble, the centre scoring. Britain fought back, and a shot by Coulson was well cleared by the German goalie. Whitlock was fouled when he appeared certain to score. Comyn, Dickenson, and Whitlock were playing a great game, and from a pass by Comyn Dickenson brought the scores level.

Soon after this Dickenson had his eye badly cut and took no further part in the game. Marsh had a nasty crack on his leg, and it looked as though the Germans might pull it off. Leyland, Naylor, and McLeod were playing the game of their lives at back, and in the last two minutes from time Comyn cleared well when a goal seemed certain.

EXTRA TIME

In the first period of extra-time, both sides pressed in turn, Britain holding their own though a man short. In the second period of extra time Britain did all the attacking, and the Germans were rarely over the halfway line.

It was in the last period that, after three minutes' play, Whitlock gave Britain the deciding goal. Comyn was excellent in goal. Leyland-Naylor and McLeod made a dear pair of backs, Leyland-Naylor getting the best out of his side. All three halves put up a splendid game. The British right wing was the

AMERICAN BOXING VICTORY

MILLER RETAINS HIS TITLE

BEATS TARLETON ON POINTS

London, June 12. Freddie Miller, of America, retained the world featherweight boxing championship at Liverpool to-night when he beat Nel Tarleton, of Liverpool and British champion, on points in a fifteen round contest.

Miller was very fast and his punching was powerful. He floored Tarleton for a count of seven with a right to the chin. Tarleton recovered after a slow opening, and several times shook the champion with stiff right handers to the jaw.

Tarleton continued to attack desperately from the sixth round but Miller's footwork which was a feature of a grey streaker, and his strong defence, prevailed. Miller, born of German-American parentage, Miller first took up professional boxing in 1927 and it was not until three years later that he suffered his first defeat, losing to Johnny Farr. Miller has previously fought and beaten Tarleton while he has also met other prominent featherweights.

Last year Miller was engaged in no less than 27 contests in America and Europe and of these he lost but two. He was beaten on a foul by Tony Paul in the second round of a bout at Los Angeles and he lost to Billy Gammon at Manchester on a foul in the sixth round.

EXPENSES FOR OLYMPIAD

SWISS COUNCIL DENY GRANT

PARTICIPATION JEOPARDISED

Berne, June 6. A motion proposing the grant of Franes 30,000 for participation in the Olympic Games in Berlin next year was defeated in the National Council, after a short debate, by 82 to 52 votes. As a result of this decision the participation of Swiss athletes in the Olympic Games has been seriously jeopardised.

FOOTBALL COUNCIL

Monthly Meeting On Monday Next

The monthly meeting of the Hong-kong Football Council will be held in the office of the Association, the Sports Club, on Monday, June 17, at 5.30 p.m.

Among the items on the agenda are—the application by the Chung Wah Football Club for affiliation to the Association; the offer by the Sports Club of new accommodation; the proposition by Messrs. Millington, Ltd., for publishing a programme of fixtures for the 1935/1936 season; and to fix a date for the annual general meeting.

AMAZING STROKE BY TURNESA

PLAYED IN OPEN TOURNAMENT

A LEFT HANDED ACTION

The greatest golf shot executed by Joe Turnesa came on the third hole of the second round of the 1930 North and South Open, at Pinehurst, N. C.

"On this hole, my drive was down the middle, but my second, hit with a spade ended up beside a tree. I was unable to take a proper stance for lack of room, and was forced to play the shot left-handed.

FIGHT FOR TITLE TO-NIGHT

MAXIE BAER AND J. BRADDOCK

CHALLENGER HAS METEORIC RISE

The world championship boxing crown will be at stake at the Madison Square Gardens this evening when Max Baer defends his title against James J. Braddock, who has had a sudden and meteoric rise in the realm of boxing.

It was following the victory of Braddock over Art Lasky that the New York Commission announced that Braddock became the leading contender for Baer's crown.

The most astonishing point of human interest in this affair is the way the limelight has been thrust upon Braddock.

Braddock's life has been a succession of these kaleidoscopic turns of Fortune's wheel. A year ago he was almost down and out. He had become lorry driver; work was scarce and his wife was going to have a baby.

So Braddock went to Madison Square Garden a few months back, pleaded for a chance and was given a couple of minor bouts.

He won both easily, was matched against Art Lasky—won again—and the cables ticked out his name to all parts of the world. Fame undreamed of.

But will his luck hold this time? He has been in and out of the ring since his teens.

FATALISTIC BLOWS

Six years ago Tunney picked him out as a coming champion—but Tunney had not reckoned with the stars which had in store for Braddock some fatalistic blows.

Fighting one of Sharkey's stable-mates Braddock broke his right hand, finished with his left—and won. That seemed to finish him. His hand, said the surgeons, must be rebroken and reset. So Braddock took on another fight to get the money to pay for the operation. And he won the fight with his left hand.

Experts afterwards said he was finished. But once again he stopped a couple of highly favoured opponents and fortune seemed to be smiling again.

Then came another knock. In a motor-car accident he broke his collar bone, took to lorry driving but once more got back to the ring and restarted the climb.

Then trouble hit him up again. He went to goal for knocking out a policeman who was arresting his young brother.

Released, he went back to his lorry; and next to Madison Square and Art Lasky!

And now how will Kismet deal with him?

NEWSPAPER COMMENT

Commenting on the decision of the National Council rejecting the motion to grant Franes 30,000 for the Swiss participation in next year's Olympic Games at Berlin, the leading Swiss paper Basler Nachrichten calls this decision "regrettable" and expresses the hope that it will be reversed by the Council of States, i.e. the Upper House.

The paper goes on to say that "it is incomprehensible how so many bourgeois deputies let themselves be humbugged by the sham arguments of the Social Democrats

RARE CRICKET FEAT

SURREY BOWLER EXCELS

FOUR SUCCESSIVE WICKETS

London, June 12. A. R. Gover, the Surrey fast bowler, performed a rare feat when playing against Worcestershire at Worcester in the County Cricket Championship to-day.

The trundler took four wickets with successive balls when Worcestershire went in to bat. This feat has not been performed by a Surrey bowler, since 1924 when H. A. Peach took four wickets against Sussex at the Oval.—British Wireless.

Several bowlers have taken four wickets with successive balls in first class cricket and the last occasion it was performed was by R. J. Crisp, the South African bowler who is now in England. He was playing for Western Province against Natal at Durban when he accomplished the achievement in 1933-34. In 1931-32 at Johannesburg when playing against Griqualand West, Crisp took four wickets with successive balls he being the only bowler to have performed the feat twice.

RIFLE SHOOTING IN COLONY

RULES DRAFTED FOR NEW BODY

MEMBERSHIP QUALIFICATIONS

The Hongkong Rifle Association, formed a week ago, held its first Council meeting in the Board Room of the S. C. M. Post, Ltd., last evening to consider the drafting of its rules.

Lieut.-Col. H. L. Morrow, D.S.O. (retired) was in the chair, and those present were: Major D. H. Steers, Capt. D. J. Grey, R.M., Flight-Lieut. J. L. D. Anderson, Messrs. C. A. Grimes, D. W. Waterman, R. Grieve, W. R. Scott, W. Stokes, L. B. Holmes and P. P. Sequiera.

According to the rules already drafted the objects of the Association are stated to be:—

(a) The encouragement of rifle and revolver shooting throughout the Colony, by providing instruction and practice on the open range, in the use of the rifle and revolver, for members of the Association.

(b) The selection of a team to represent the colony, in all inter-Colonial and other events both at Bixley and elsewhere, in which teams representing the Colony may compete as such.

MEMBERSHIP

With regard to membership, the rules say that there should be three classes of individual full membership, namely:—

(a) Ordinary. Open to serving Officers and other ranks of the Royal Navy, Royal Marines, Regular Army, and Royal Air Force, and to past members of these Services; serving members of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps and past members of the Volunteer Corps, either here or in some other part of the Empire, who have attained military efficiency for at least three years; present and past members of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force; present members of the Hongkong Police Force; Police Reservists, ex-Reservists who are in possession of the Police Reserve Silver Badge; members of the Hongkong Royal Dockyard Police; and members of the Legion of Frontiersmen.

(b) Special. Open to those civilians, whose occupations in the Governments of the Colonies or in the Mercantile Marine Service, are such that they would be retained in such employment in case of emergency.

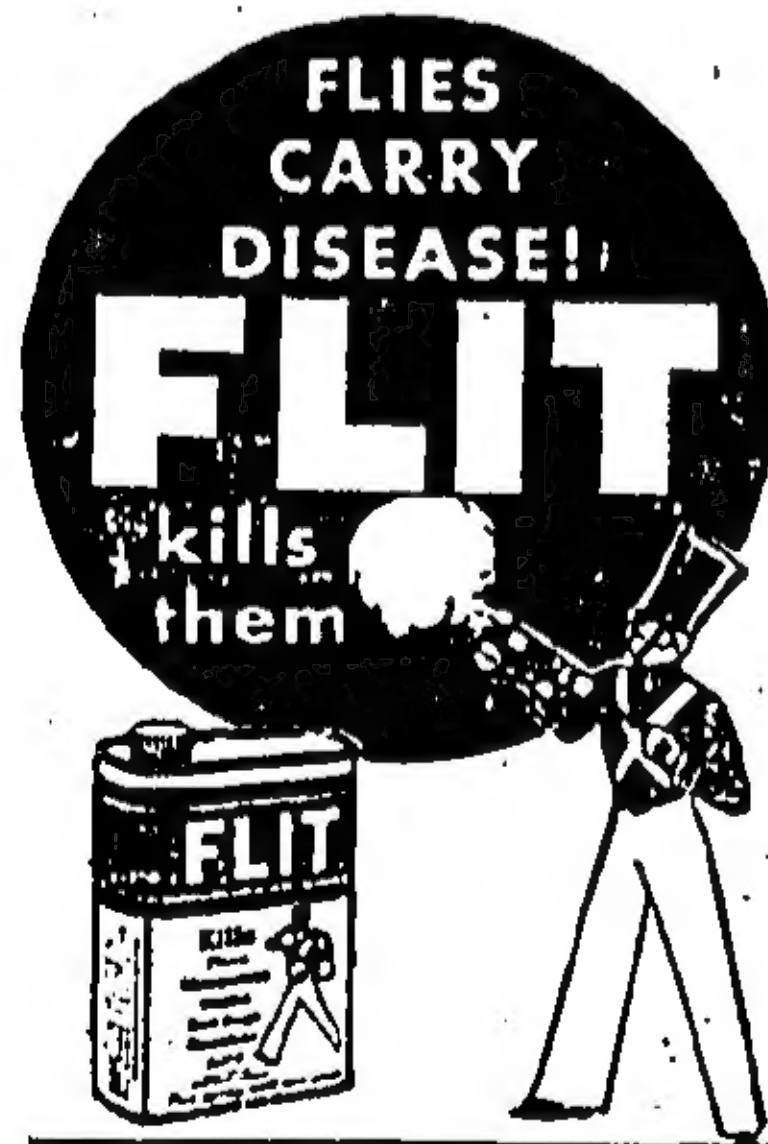

Each application for membership will be considered by the Council, before approval will be given to such application.

(c) Honorary. Open only to such persons of distinction as may be invited by the Council to become Honorary Members.

The rules also say that there should be no entrance fees and that the Annual Subscription to be $5 for Officers, $3 for other ranks and $7.50 for civilians. Their respective fees for Life Membership are to be $30, $18 and $45.

It was also mentioned at the meeting that the rules would be presented for adoption at the general meeting to be held in the Board Room of the S. C. M. Post, Ltd., on Wednesday next at 5.30 p.m.

Harry Griffiths, Everton centre-half, and Pinkerton, inside forward, from Hull City were transferred to Port Vale last month.

FLIES CARRY DISEASE! FLIT kills them

TORRY WILSON RE-ELECTED

To Captain Shanghai Cricket Club

An appeal to all members to do their best to bring in new members was made at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Recreation Club by T. W. R. Wilson, acting president, who was in the chair. Mr. Wilson pointed out that the club had excellent facilities for cricket, soccer, tennis and lawn bowls. The chairman reported on a satisfactory past year.

An interesting announcement regarding the playing field was made by the chairman. This autumn it will be used for soccer (it was closed last season), but when the football season is over, the ground will be closed to play for a few months while it is raised one foot, in continuation of the scheme by which other parts of the race course grounds have already been made higher. While the ground is closed, the club members have been promised the use of the Widow's Monument ground for cricket and tennis next year.

The general committee were elected as follows: T. W. R. Wilson (president), J. L. Wade (vice-president), J. A. Brockett (hon. secretary), G. E. Marshall (hon. treasurer), G. H. Akerman, F. A. Leino, H. J. Hunt, R. Davie, G. Madar, A. J. Willis. T. W. R. Wilson was re-elected captain of cricket.

Y.M.C.A. BURLESQUE POPULAR

"OLYMPIC GAMES" HELD

SPORTS MEETING LAST NIGHT

The European Y.M.C.A. first mock Olympic Games, 1935, held in the West Lounge last night attracted a crowd of over 200 people and proved very successful, giving every indication of being the forerunner of many more events of a similar nature when the cooler months come round.

An excellent burlesque programme was arranged by the Women's Section who are to be congratulated on their ingenuity. Everybody spent a thoroughly enjoyable time the events including fanning a paper fish on the floor (termed "swimming"), picking up walnuts with chop sticks and throwing peanuts into brass vases!

The competing teams were: Mars (Red), Venus (Pink), Jupiter (Green), Saturn (Violet), Neptune (Blue) and Mercury (Orange), and the respective captains were Messrs. D. Paul, F. Sellwood, R. Bates, G. Basil Jones, V. East and L. D. Skinner.

Saturn team won with 1,800 points, Mars being second with a total of 1,700 points, Mars being second with a total of 1,700 points and Venus and Neptune tied for third place with 1,400 points each.

At the conclusion of the events, Mrs. Sweet presented souvenirs to the winning team and to Mrs. Siegler and Mr. Harold Smith who won the prizes for the musical contest.

Mr. E. F. Selk expressed thanks to the Women's Section for the splendid programme they had arranged.

THE RESULTS

Results were as follows:
100 metres swimming:—1. Violet; 2. Green; 3. Orange.
Hurling the Javelin:—1. Orange; 2. Red; 3. Orange.
Putting the Weight:—1. Violet; 2. Green; 3. Blue.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH TOURNEY

FOUR FIXTURES DECIDED

Four matches in the Lawn Bowls Open singles championship were finished yesterday afternoon, the others being postponed owing to the heavy rain.

On the Hongkong Electric green, H. P. Westlake beat J. Russell by 21 shots to 19 on the 25th head.

M. Y. Adal, defeated E. W. Simmonds by 22 shots to 20 on the Tal-koo Dock green. The game was finished on the 24th head.

A. M. Holland had an easy passage at the expense of F. X. M. Silva by 21 shots to three on the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club green. The game finished on the 15th head.

D. M. Khan beat G. N. Mitchell by 21 shots to eight at the Club de Recreo.

The match between J. V. Ramsay and H. Beer on the Kowloon Cricket Club green was left unfinished on the eighth head, Ramsay leading by five shots to four.

At the Craigengower Cricket Club, A. Hyde-Lay was leading J. M. Purves by ten shots to eight when the game was stopped.

On the 42th head, when the rain came, A. R. Dalish was being led by L. de Rome by 11 shots to ten. The game was on the Civil Service green.

The match between A. E. Coates and J. S. Landolt against F. Cullen and J. J. Whyte, in the Baira championship, which was to have been continued on the Civil Service green, was also postponed.

LOOK OUT FOR JAPANESE

WARNING TO THE WORLD

Los Angeles.

From no less an authority than Lieutenant Jack Kennedy of the United States navy, a prominent ring referee, comes the caution to the world to look out for Japan in the 1936 Olympic games boxing championships.

"You remember how the swimming races went in the 1932 Olympic games?" questioned Lieut. Kennedy, referring to a Japanese sweep in most of the free style events.

"Well, it's going to be that way in the boxing over in Berlin in 1936. The Japanese are out to do something in boxing and you watch them. They have 14,000 battling in elimination right now. They'll be plenty tough."

Relay Race:—1. Blue; 2. Orange; 3. Red.

New Records Set Up In Japan

TRACK TIMES LOWERED UNOFFICIALLY

UNDERGRADUATES IN FORM

Tokyo, June 7.

Hideo Tanaka, student of Keio University, to-day established a new unofficial Japanese record for the 3,000-meter run by covering the distance in 8 minutes, 37-2/5 seconds.

The world's record in this event is 8 minutes, 20-2/5 seconds and was established by Paavo Nurmi, the "Flying Finn," in 1926 at Stockholm.

Kosukuo Kikumoto, of Bunriku University, established a new record for the 16-pound shotput which he heaved 44.76 feet.

The world's shotput record is 53 feet, 1-1/2 inch, and was established by Leo Sexton of America in 1932.

TRACK & FIELD

FILIPINO ATHLETES IN JAPAN

PLACED THIRD IN MEET

Ozaka, June 9.

Competing with the flower of Japan's track and field athletes, including 1932 world Olympic contestants, the invading Filipino athletes, making their first appearance, placed third in a triangular meet to-day at the Koshien stadium near here.

The Japanese were divided into two teams, East Japan and West Japan, the former boasting the Olympic stars Yoshioka and Nishida. The final point score was East Japan 117-1/2; West Japan, 100; Philippines 69-1/2. The meet was run off under ideal conditions.

Miguel White was the star of the visitors, setting a new Japanese record of 53.4 seconds in capturing the 400-metre hurdles event.

Herman Caudari, of the University of the Philippines, was the only other Filipino to take a first place. He captured the 400 metres in 50.2 seconds.

Other Filipino scorers were Bill Ray, third in the discus, Wenceslao Bunsale, second in the high hurdles; A. V. Antonio, second in the javelin; and Rafael Navaleca, third in the 100 metres; and Miguel Sujeco, third in the pole vault.

NEW JAPAN RECORD

Yoshioka took the 100 metres in 10.3 seconds, a new Japan record, flashing the form that made him Japan's premier speed merchant.

This race attracted the most attention as Navaleca holds the Philippine record for the distance and three times conquered Rafael De Leon, who in the Far Eastern Olympics at Manila a year ago unexpectedly defeated Yoshioka.

Other outstanding performances by the Japanese included:

T. Tajima, won the broad jump at 7.74 metres; Oshima, captured the hop, step and jump with a distance of 15.54 metres; and T. Murakami, the high hurdles in 14.6 seconds.

The Philippines placed second in the 1,600-metre relay event which East Japan won in 3 minutes, 20.4 seconds. The Philippines was third in the 400-metre relay.

The Filipinos are scheduled next to take part in a meet on June 12 at Nagoya and then in Tokyo on June 15-16. Another meet is

SERIAL STORY—

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHAPTER XLIII

Millicent remained flattened against the wall of the doorway. She could hear the pounding of her heart. She could also hear the pounding of steps on the pavement as Vera Duchene and Bob Chase came walking directly toward her.

What had brought them? Had they trailed her in some way, or was it merely a coincidence that she had blundered upon them? She had no means of knowing, but she sensed that were she discovered in this deserted side street who would probably never live to tell of her encounter. Ever since she had seen those sinister dark spots in the room where Norman Hupp had gone to call upon the mysterious Phyllis Faulconer she had realized the desperation of the people who were opposing her.

The murder of Dringold and the murder of Harry Felding had somehow not driven the situation home to her, as had those sinister marks. Vera Duchene and her escort walked directly past the doorway. Millicent caught her breath in a quick intake as Vera Duchene's arm almost brushed against her shoulder. She expected momentarily to hear Vera cry out, "There she is!" and to feel Bob Chase's hands clutching at her throat.

As they walked past she heard Vera Duchene saying, "Every-thing's under cover now. We can let them investigate and be damned."

"No," Bob said, "there remains that girl. We've got to turn her in on the Dringold job." Vera Duchene said crisply, "That's all we need to do. Sergeant Mahoney will take care of her."

Millicent was unable to hear exactly how Vera Duchene finished but she thought she knew exactly what the pair were planning to do. She would have given much could she have heard some bit of conversation which would have given her an inkling of what had happened to Norman Hupp, but realized this would be expecting too much. She was thankful enough that she had remained undiscovered.

She dared not venture forth from the protection of the doorway until after she heard the steps of the pair recede in the distance and knew that they had rounded the corner. Even then she waited for almost a minute before venturing to walk down toward the main traffic artery. She wanted to get a taxi and go at once to the hotel where she was registered as Millicent Jones. She knew that if Norman Hupp could break loose he would communicate with her there.

And she surmised that Vera Duchene and Bob Chase must have called on the mysterious Phyllis Faulconer who maintained the underground apartment which seemed to be headquarters for all of the plotting. Millicent caught a cab at the corner, went at once to the hotel. The clerk eyed her with casual curiosity. "Has anyone been calling for me?" she asked.

"No."

"No telephone calls?"

"None."

"You're sure?"
"Of course I'm sure. No one's called you."
"Listen," she told him, "I'm going out, but if anyone calls for me, would you mind telling them that Miss Jones left a message that she is quite all right and will be back here to pick up any messages in about an hour from now?"

She slipped a dollar from her purse and said, "It's really most important."

The flabby fingers of the man behind the desk closed on the dollar. "Okay," he said, showing the first bit of friendly interest he had displayed toward her. "I'll see that your message is delivered, Miss Jones. But who shall I deliver it to? Just anyone that calls?"

"Just anyone that calls," she said. "Anyone who asks for me."

The cab was waiting at the door. She decided to risk detection by going back to the apartment house and ascertaining if the cab driver had discovered anything in his tour of the apartments.

She entered the cab, gave the driver the address and sat back against the cushions, her mind racing against a confused sequence of thoughts. She noticed the passing of time until the cab arrived at the apartment house. She saw the friendly cab driver sitting behind the wheel of his cab which was parked at the curb. She paid off the driver of the cab in which she was riding, walked up to her friend and said in a low voice, "Did you find anything?"

He gave a start of surprise, whirled around to face her and said, "Take it easy, Miss. That's a radio car over there at the curb. Some one's made a squeak and a couple of cops are investigating apartment 309. There's been a fight up there and somebody got hurt."

"Did they say who it was?"
"No. Just a bunch of busted furniture and some blood stains. I took a squint at the directory. A Jane named Phyllis Faulconer lives there."

"Did you cover the rest of the apartments?"
"Yes, but I couldn't find any trace of your friend. They all looked on the up and up to me—that is, those that answered. Three or four of them didn't answer the door, or maybe they'd gone to bed, or they might be out—but, listen, Miss, if there's a beef anywhere you'd better beat it because the guys from the radio car are going to be out in a minute and there's a guy with them who's probably the chap who made the squeak in the first place. He looks like he was the guy who was telling me about that was on the force."

She flashed him a grateful glance, and, acting on impulse, gave him her hand.

He patted it reassuringly and said, "Hop in and let me drive you around the corner."

"No," she said, "I'll walk. I'll make it all right."

She walked rapidly around the corner and noticed with some surprise that she had developed a habit of looking back over her shoulder to see if she were being followed.

She found that, without conscious volition on her part, she was mechanically retracing the course which had been taken by the taxi when she had fled from the apartment and suddenly realized that her route would take her past the big garage which the cab driver had pointed out to her when she had asked him to park.

A garage! That must be where Vera Duchene and Bob Chase had been going when they had walked so rapidly and purposefully past her.

She increased her pace, walked to the garage, entered it and smiled at the man on duty.

"A man and a woman came in here about half an hour ago," she said, "for an automobile. I wonder if there's any chance you would remember the car or the people?"

"What sort of car?" he asked.
"I don't know, but I think it was a cabriolet—not one that's stored here regularly."

He shook his head. "No," he said, "I don't think there's been a transient car in here all evening. Most of our stuff is storage by the month. Seems to me we did have a transient too, but I can't remember the people. I'm new here. Lots of 'em I don't know."

An idea flashed quickly through her mind. "Do you store a car for a Phyllis Faulconer?" she asked.

"Why, yes," he said. "A black sedan, license number 93410."

"That's the one," she said excitedly. "Could I see it for a moment?"

He looked at her suspiciously, but she gave him a reassuring smile. "I just want to look at it," she said. "I'm very much interested."

"It's on the second floor," he said. "I guess I should go up with you, but you look all right, so I'll let you go on up by yourself. I've got to stay on duty down here."

She thought then that there was something peculiarly significant about his expression. It was as though he wanted to warn her of some impending danger, yet dared not do so.

She started toward the stairs to the second floor, but turned when she had gone a few steps to give him one more glance.

This time there could be no mistake. He was looking at her with an expression of pity, but he turned his eyes away almost as soon as she encountered his gaze.

Millicent decided that, after all, it was merely her imagination.

She climbed the stairs to the second floor. An elevator was in one corner of a big room, divided into stalls in which automobiles were parked, side by side.

Millicent found the car she wanted—a black sedan, license 93410. She wondered if perhaps there might be some clue in this car which would help her locate Norman Hupp.

She opened the door opposite the driver's seat, climbed into the front seat and leaned forward to inspect the registration certificate.

She felt the springs of the car sway.

Someone had been concealed in the rear of that car, someone who was now moving.

She looked back over her shoulder, and encountered a clutching hand reaching out for her arm.

She screamed.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

By W. E. McKenney

My first step on my recent cruise was Bermuda. Naturally, one of the first places I looked up was the Bermuda Bridge Club. I had a pleasant visit with Roland Lines, the tournament director. I learned through him that the interest in bridge in Bermuda is just as keen as it is in the United States.

As a matter of fact, the government itself is interested to the extent that it has put up a trophy that is played for annually in the open pair championship tournament. This year it was won by two residents of Bermuda, Frank Gosling and Donald C. Smith. I have great hopes of seeing this pair in one of the American Bridge League national events this year.

Here's an interesting play that developed during the tournament down there. It is old, but one that I have not seen for several years in tournament play.

The Bidding

North's bid of two hearts is just a chance-giving bid. South's jump to three no trump might be termed slightly optimistic, but it is possible that two no trump could be passed by the partner, especially if North had stretched his hand to bid two hearts.

The Play

West's opening lead against the three no trump contract was the three of spades. Declarer can count two clubs, two diamonds, and a spade. To make his contract, he needs four heart tricks, or three hearts and two spades.

So the first thing the declarer has to do is to hope that East holds the king of hearts. If he does, he must get in dummy twice to take the needed finesse.

Declarer's first play was the nine of spades from dummy. East naturally played the ace. Would you play the four spot on this trick? If so, you wouldn't make the contract. You must drop your king on East's ace, thereby un-blocking and creating an entry into dummy with the jack of spades.

This entry, with the ace of clubs, gives declarer opportunity to finesse the heart twice, thus allowing him to make four heart tricks.

This neat unblocking play created what is termed a hidden entry.

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing the contract at five diamonds. West's opening lead is the jack of hearts. Can you make six diamonds?

CAR & CYCLIST COLLIDE

ACCIDENT SEQUEL IN COURT

Fines totalling $30 were imposed on Woo Hing, aged 20, car washer, when he was summoned before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy this morning on four counts (a) driving private car No. 501 without due care and caution in Morrison Hill Road on June 8, (b) failing to stop after a collision with a push-cyclist, (c) failing to report an accident at the nearest Police Station, and (d) failing to be accompanied by a licensed driver when driving car No. 501.

The complainant was Che Hung, aged 17, student, of 10, Tin Lok Lane. Traffic Sergeant Clark prosecuted.

Defendant admitted all the summonses except (b). Sergeant Clark said defendant actually stopped after colliding with the complainant, but ran away. Giving the facts of the case, the Sergeant stated that on June 8, at about 4 p.m. defendant was driving car No. 501 south along Morrison Hill Road when he collided with complainant who was riding a bicycle northwards towards Hennessy Road. When complainant picked himself up, he was again knocked down. Defendant then disappeared and complainant reported the incident to the police, as a result of which Sergeant Clark made investigations.

Defendant's master was an Indian car driver, Kartar Singh. When Sergeant Clark questioned him about defendant, he told a lot of lies about defendant being in the country. He himself had witnessed the accident, as it had happened outside his garage, but had made no attempt to report it. The bicycle had been considerably damaged, the rear wheel being smashed.

Defendant said he had been learning to drive a car for nearly five months, but had always been accompanied by a licensed driver. June 8 was the first occasion on which he had taken a car out by himself.

After evidence, His Worship dismissed (b) summons, but fined defendant $15 for failing to drive with due care and caution, $10 for failing to report the accident, $5 for being unaccompanied by a licensed driver, and ordered $8 compensation to be given to complainant for the damage done to the bicycle.

SCHOOL TEACHER CHARGED

ALLEGED ATTEMPT AT FRAUD

EMPRESS LINER INCIDENT

George Alexander Gordon, a 22-year-old teacher of the Cosmo-politan College, No. 119 Parker Street, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, charged with attempting to obtain money by false pretences.

It was alleged that the accused attempted to obtain $60, United States currency, from Mr. J. J. Gibbons, purser of the R.M.S. Empress of Canada, yesterday by pretending that he had been authorised to do so by Mr. L. Williamson, a passenger on the steamer.

Detective Sub-Inspector L. Whant appeared for the prosecution.

E. R. Fleming, purser of the Empress of Canada, stated in evidence that at 9 a.m. yesterday witness was attending the telephone on the ship. Shortly after 11 a.m., a message was received for Mr. Williamson. A boy was sent for him, but he was out. At 11.45 a.m., another call was received asking whether a message had been left for Mr. Williamson, and the caller was told that one had been left at 11 a.m. The caller replied that he knew about that, and asked for the purser. He was asked for his name, and, in answer, gave the name of a firm, which witness did not hear properly, and stated that the caller wished to send a man to collect an account against Mr. Williamson from the purser. BECAME SUSPICIOUS

The purser at that time was busy with the captain, and the caller was told to telephone again later. At 11.57 a.m. another call was received and the person was speaking told witness that it was Mr. Williamson who was speaking, and asked for the purser, who was called.

Questioned, witness stated that he had not heard the voice on the telephone before, and he thought that it was an American who spoke.

Mr. J. J. Gibbons, purser, stated that at 11.45 a.m. he was called to the telephone and was told that the person speaking gave the name of Mr. Williamson. Ten minutes later, he was called again and the caller told witness that he was Mr. Williamson, who was a first-class passenger from Manila to Vancouver. Witness knew Mr. Williamson's voice and as the voice did not sound like it, he became suspicious.

The caller then told witness that he was an advertiser and that Mr. Williamson wanted witness to pay a bill for $60 (U.S. currency) on his behalf. Witness did not catch the name the caller gave.

At witness's request to call, the accused arrived on the steamer at 12.10 p.m. and produced a bill from a brief case and said "Mr. Williamson has asked you to pay this bill." The bill was from the Cosmopolitan Advertising Syndicate for the sum of $60. Witness queried it because the amount was in gold dollars. At this moment the steamer's Master-At-Arms came in. The defendant told witness that the exchange had been fixed at his office.

Defendant gave his name as "Francis Lee, China Building." Witness wrote this on the back of the bill in pencil. Witness handed the bill to the Master-At-Arms and defendant was asked to go with him to his cabin.

Witness never saw defendant before, and Mr. Williamson never

FOUR BANISHEES GAOLED

ONE ARRESTED WHEN HAVING BATH

Four returned banishees were charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, and sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment with hard labour.

Wong Tak-kwong, unemployed, who was arrested in Queen's Road, East, had been banished for ten years on January 1, 1931, and he received a sentence of twelve months' hard labour. He said he had come back to see his mother who was ill.

Pun Yink-cheong, unemployed, a cripple, who was banished for ten years in March this year, was sentenced to six months' hard labour. The defendant was only about three feet from the ground, both his legs being crippled. He said he came back to sell cigarettes.

Li Tak, unemployed, banished for ten years in March this year, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour. He was arrested in Johnston Road, and Liu Wing, unemployed, was sentenced to six months' hard labour. He was banished for ten years in August 1933. He was arrested in Wan-chai when having a bath.

He gave instructions to witness to pay bills for him.

POLICE SENT FOR

Mr. J. C. Webber, Master-At-Arms, stated that about 11.50 a.m. he received a message from last witness and went to the Water Police Station and asked that a police officer be sent to the ship. Twenty minutes later, witness went back and saw accused and last witness. Witness heard the last witness asked accused why the bill was in gold dollars, and the reply was it had been arranged by Mr. Williamson and that the exchange had been fixed at his office.

Witness asked accused to follow him to his cabin. As they left, they met Sub-Inspector Whant and he accompanied them. Accused was cautioned and searched. On him was found a piece of paper with the heading "Cosmopolitan College." He also had in his possession a first-class passenger list of the Empress of Canada, dated June 7. These were kept by Sub-Inspector Whant and accused was taken to the police station, where the brief case was searched.

Defendant denied that the passenger list was found on him and alleged that it was found in his brief case at the police station. Mr. N. Williamson stated that he did not know the accused and that he knew nothing whatever about the bill. Witness did not give anybody authority to go to the purser to collect payment of bills.

Witness had advertisements in a local directory, but this was done through a Manila representative. If any advertisements were put in local newspapers, it would be done under witness's authority. During the time he was ashore, witness had no communication with the ship.

DEFENDANT REMANDED

At this stage the Magistrate informed defendant that these witnesses had been heard because they would be leaving on the steamer to-morrow, and that if he had any questions to ask, he should do so now.

Defendant was then remanded until Saturday morning in police custody.

Before leaving the dock, defendant reminded Sub-Inspector Whant that another man was implicated in this case.

Sub-Inspector Whant explained to his Worship that a witness would be called to testify that defendant and another man used a telephone in a shop.
